

COAST TO COAST AMNESIA

After midnight, the AM band offers subject matter of basically two alternatives: idiots yapping about niggers and footballs, or a rapidly expanding coast to coast amnesia, the “worlds number one late night talk show” because it’s the only late night talk format not specifically geared to truckers that occasionally offers its forum to worried White folks wondering if they’re not the only ones who’ve figured out that it’s now 2009 and America stands on the verge of plummeting into the third world. Barry-Hussein unceremoniously passed an unprecedented five executive orders in his first week in office and for the first time in American history a newly elected president made his first post-election speech to a foreign network—a muslim one at that. Furthermore, many have only very recently discovered his real repulsive name. It has become evident that Communism has after all triumphed in the United States. To say that there is great pessimism among White Americans witnessing the advent of Barry-Hussein is an understatement, but while everybody’s lying wide awake beside their radio desperately awaiting updates on the federal government’s malicious schemes, George Noorey is scheduling the ghost-busters. This nationally syndicated radio broadcast—with over 500 affiliates—which purports to be a vehicle of mass expression yet refuses to transmit the general opinion of its audience, is a perfect example of how the media abuses its power; at such a perilous time in American history, to be constantly discussing the verity of past lives and space aliens is absolutely inexcusable. For two weeks after the inauguration, the coast to coast monopoly spent less than a single hour out of a possible fifty-six (!) expressing the genuine concern of its listenership, thereby beguiling them into assuming that their own personal fears don’t reflect the majority and are therefore, probably for the most part, unfounded. Could it be that this very suspicious Noorey character—whose father comes from the Middle East, by the way—is only pretending to be clueless when in fact in reality he’s a downright scoundrel committing high treason to the American people?

Year after year the same old questions find the same short answers. Coast to Coast AM has alienated a once primarily rural audience by rigging its switchboard to promulgate urban stupidity. But George is a shrewd enough snake to understand that far-out Armageddon scenarios and surreal conjectural for 2012 can only garner so much attention from down-to-earth people concerned with happenings in the real world—like the brown community organizer from Chicago forcing a draft, purging the police and military, and deploying inner city thugs to overrun White enclaves in search of booty and the fairest daughters of socially dangerous elements—so whenever he senses a sufficient lull he’ll introduce the loud-mouth Texan who claims to be at the forefront of opposition to the New World Order:

According to the bulldog, what we—the people of the world—are in fact up against is an evil secret society called the Luminati. Its past initiates may include pretty much everybody it’s socially acceptable to have a negative opinion on, though of course with special mention to Adolf Hitler. But always remember that the Luminati is an extremely complex network of villainy so don’t even bother trying to pin it down to any definite ideology; bottom line is that it doesn’t believe that we—the people of the world—are all created equal. In its ranks are red communists in league with racist skinheads; Marxist intellectuals working in coordination with industrial Capitalists; European neo-Nazis intertwined with Israeli oligarchs and Islamic radicals in bed with nameless men at the Vatican alongside every group of shadowy characters you can search out on google, all scheming together to screw us out of our brotherhood of humanity. In fact, if you’re really set on learning the truth, google and yahoo provide ample links to plenty of recent publications—mostly from

New York—filled with all sorts of amazing connections between the villains of the ages to show how their offspring are carrying on an evil legacy that's responsible for environmental pollution and all the troubles of the third world... and now, like shrewd businessmen, they've contrived a ruthless conspiracy which aims to eradicate their growing number of producers and consumers in order to reduce the earth's total population to a cozy 500 million, which of course, shall consist of these elites themselves who apparently come in all colors and from every nation while participating in an intricate eugenics program which has them all inter-breeding and mutually plotting all the mischief plaguing mankind! What can we do to stop this evil pestilence? It's easy: wake up and join the global conscience movement! How do we do sign up? It's simple: tune-in to programs like Coast to Coast Amnesia with its tired list of feel-better peddlers pushing passive delusion, because we can win this war if only we all just come together...

You want conspiracy? It's no secret that a society of blood-related elites meet in the world's synagogues; and the, "global elite", is a cheap pseudonym for the safely traveling families whose crooked feet never touch soil other than sands of the Chosen Land. These thieving intermediaries who spend their entire lives looking down on us from jets in the sky and high up in their bank palaces have long had an eye to transform planet earth into their giant department store with the only permitted eugenics program being that series of ancient racial laws sailing under the flag of religion guarding their Semitic DNA while at the same time inoculating the rest of us with its spin-off, race-mixing ideologies which progressively denigrate Aryan Humanity. What about the media-induced miscegenation habit of White women? Drug-fuelled suicidal lifestyles force-fed to straight White males? Untold millions of aborted White fetuses? Naming fictitious disorders to provide grounds to dope vigorous White boys who show symptoms of developing into real men? How about the 500 million motif not being how many Earthlings this cabal prefers to keep around but how many White men it fully intends to wipe off the face of Europe and America with a scam called immigration? And the Sun's cyclical warming of our solar system being a perfect excuse for the pirates to use global legislation to monopolize still independent markets and control every facet of our lives? Infectious barbs imported from the foreign slums in the name of an insane definition of compassion? Government edicts Africanizing our superior Aryan culture? Calling 90% of the world's population minorities? Banishing whoever points out reality? Demonizing as a hate-monger anybody with the courage to stand up to these monsters? The list can go on and on and on until you're in a murderous rage.

But that's just crazy talk according to George Noorey, far more rational to allow yourself to actually believe that an in-breeding pagan cult consisting of many races has devised a one-world government scheme which ends in killing off those billions of minorities... absolutely preposterous, yet incredibly broadcast to tens of millions! Attention Coast-listener: when George reminds you that these globalists have a firm grip on the media while hosting the worlds most listened to late night talk show, it should tell you his bulldog is bullshitting and its high time you smelt it. The test is very simple: phone George to simply ask: by the historical names referenced by your guests it is being implied that these so-called genetic elites are predominantly of the White Race—and if you manage to get that point across—but how then do you explain the fact that in the imagery created by the advertisement industry—obviously being managed by these elites—Black and Mulatto men appear beside White women at a rate that far exceeds the reverse and just slightly below the frequency White men are displayed alongside their own female counterparts? When you meet the seven second delay you might want to reconsider your ideas on the existence of free speech on the radio.

How did an unknown Noorey end up with this important radio gig at such a critical stage in our struggle for freedom of speech in America without ever having met its creator, Art Bell? This has yet to be adequately explained and probably for good reason. George is hiding in a cave using radio signals to insinuate in the impressionable minds of millions of White Americans the atrocious lie that since the real objective of global government is to reduce the earth's total population by 85%—obviously then implying an extermination project aimed at the third world—it is not White people who are in danger—so worry about the rest of the world instead of your own community. His bullshitting bulldog is only one of several like-species spreading insanity across the airwaves and every radio station permitting the dissemination of this mendacity is constantly bombarded with untold amounts of death threats and hate-mail so only a fool believes the man hosting Coast to Coast is simply innocently mistaken. This bastard is culpable to an unpardonable crime against the Highest Image of God. But he doesn't care, because he has no soul. While he may sound like a nice man who stretches out words like incredible and amazing, George Noorey is the scum of the earth.

The biggest conspiracy going is this malignant idea that our unique humanity embraces 7 billion and its implications are fatal to a mind discerning reality making it the necessary requirement for any aspiring journalist to be made pliant clay in a Jewish media pyramid which has the knack for recognizing mindlessness and systematically fostering it to prominence...obviously exactly what occurred in the case of the deranged Alex Jones, who under sane conditions would never find an audience beyond a street corner. But with ZOG running the show his local profile as a disgruntled voice of opposition to the New World Order was worthy of national exposure: half-wit pacifist talking in circles to connect the unconnectable; in short, a once no-name nincompoop now collecting a fat sum to pad his inflated ego while sapping America's animosity to the foreign take-over of it's sovereignty. Sadly, as is usually the case with this brand of traitor, stupidity solidifies complicity; and it's more than likely the idiot actually believes he is what he's only permitted to pretend to be, and that he's merely a useful pawn in service of the Beast he daily denounces may only manifest in torrid dreams of a day he's given his thanks at point blank range. ZOG tolerates those of us who bring checkers to the chessboard because WAR is a movement that must be guided by masters.
