Dachau: A Holocaust Riddle - by Paul Krupp

In order to understand the war propaganda in the present Middle-East situation, people, whose mental-switch is not permanently in the "OFF" position, should think back to events in WW II which were classed as "war-crimes".

Realizing that there can never be a war without war crimes, it is quite different to be responsible for war crimes which only existed in wartime propaganda but never happened. Are there such things that could happen, but are not true, or are true but never happened? Before anyone calls it ludicrous, here is what a Nobel Peace-Prize Laureate said:

"What are you writing?" the Rebbe asked. "Stories," I said. He wanted to honor, integrity, morality and all the virtues a homogeneous people have created over thousands of years.

To have reasons for "liberating" nations and people, horror-stories have to be created in order to foment enough public hate to go blindly into war without questioning the reasons for war. The English-speaking nations never had to defend themselves; they always bled and died liberating other people from imaginary oppression. Die Wachmannschaften des KZ Dachau, bei Kriegsende größtenteils invalide einstige Frontsoldaten, wurden von den US-Truppen ohne weiteres erschossen (Bild). Danach führten die US-Besatzer das schreckliche Lager, in dem schon so viel Leid geschehen war, als eigenes KZ weiter.
 Translation of above text by E. Thomson:

At the war's end, the guards of the Dachau concentration camp were mostly former soldiers who had been wounded at the front. They were promptly shot by U.S. (Indian) troops, as shown above. The U.S. turned Dachau, the scene of so much suffering (due to typhus and wartime starvation), into their own concentration camp. This photo was one taken by Beuchner who wrote "The Day of the Avenger."

Nearby boxcars filled with corpses had been riddled by machinegun bullets: .50 caliber bullets used by Allied fighterbombers for the "interdiction" of all German ground transport, which caused mass starvation in German cities and concentration camps. Starvation and disease were the effects of Allied policy, not German atrocities, as alleged by Allied propaganda.
