Here's How To Control People

The difference between true education and vocational training has been cleverly blurred.

Here are a few tips on how very smart people can control other people. If any of this rings a bell—well, then, Charley Reese wake up.

The first principle of people control is not to let them know you are controlling them. If people know, this knowledge will breed resentment and possibly rebellion, which would then require brute force and terror—an old-fashioned, expensive and not 100 percent certain method of control.

It is easier than you think to control people indirectly, to manipulate them into thinking what you want them to think and doing what you want them to do.

One basic technique is to keep them ignorant. Educated people are not as easy to manipulate. Abolishing public education or restricting access to education would be the direct approach. That would spill the beans. The indirect approach is to control the education they do receive.

It's possible in our time to be a Ph.D., a doctor, a lawyer, a businessman, a journalist, or an accountant, just to name a few examples, and at the same time be an uneducated person. The difference between true education and vocational training has been cleverly blurred in our time so that we have people successfully practicing their vocations while at the same time being totally ignorant of the larger issues of the world in which they live.

The most obvious symptom is their absence of original thought. Ask them a question and they will end up reciting what someone else thinks or thought the answer is or was. What do they think? Well, they never thought about it. Their education consisted of learning how to use the library and cite sources.

That greatly simplifies things for the controller because with lots of money, university endowments, foundations, grants and ownership of media, it's relatively easy to control who they will think of as authorities to cite in lieu of doing their own thinking.

Another technique is to keep them entertained. Roman emperors did not stage circuses and gladiator contests because they didn't have television. We have television because we don't have circuses and gladiator contests. Either way, the purpose is to keep the people's minds focused on entertainment, sports, and peripheral political issues. That way you won't have to worry that they will ever figure out the real issues that allow you to control them.

Just as a truly educated person is difficult to control, so too is an economically independent person. Therefore you want to create conditions that will produce people who work for wages, since wage earners have little control over their economic destiny. You'll also want to control the monetary, credit and banking system. This will allow you to inflate the currency and make it next to impossible for wage-earners to accumulate capital. You can also cause periodic deflations to collapse the small businesses, family farms and entrepreneurs, including independent community banks.

To keep trade unions under control, you just promote a scheme that allows you to shift production jobs out of the country and bring back the products as imports (it's called free trade). This way you'll end up with no unions or docile unions.

Another technique is to buy both political parties so that after awhile people will feel that no matter whether they vote for Candidate A or Candidate B, they will get the same policies. This will create great apathy and a belief that the political process is useless for effecting real change.

Pretty soon you will have a population that feels completely helpless, and thinks the bad things happening to them are nobody in particular's fault, just a result of global forces or evolution or some other disembodied abstract concept. If necessary, you can offer scapegoats.

Then you can bleed them dry without having to worry overly much that one of them will sneak into your house one night and cut your throat. If you do it right, they won't even know whose throat deserves cutting. □

ZOG-WAYS: A GUIDE FOR GOYIM by E. Thomson

"How do I loathe thee? Let me count the ways..." The ploys of ZOG which are used to persecute & enslave the Goyim are myriad, so I may touch upon those which immediately come to mind, & with which I am experienced, as a victim.

Co-optation: One whom ZOG wants on its side is bribed &/or blackmailed to serve ZOG.

Infiltration: Zoggies become members of anti-Zionist groups.

False-flag ops & orgs: Zoggies found, fund & foster operations &/or organizations with ostensible anti-Zionist objectives.

Confusion: ZOG establishes &/or encourages many false-flag groups &/or fronts to confuse Goyim about which line & which group to believe & to support. The jewsmedia drowned out Father Coughlin by inundating the airwaves with a multitude of crazy bible-bangers in the 1930s.

The Tender Trap: Co-opting a Goy leader by means of a jew whore is even admitted in The Old Testament. It works!

Disinformation: In which a poisonous lie is wrapped in layers of sweet truth.

Big Lies: As Hitler warned, Goyim tend to believe impudent whoppers, being unwilling to tell such whoppers themselves. Hence, they think no one could be so bold nor impudent. Wrong, Goyim, wrong!

Assassination: When beatings & bribes do not work, murder usually does. The assassination of one's character with kosher calumnies may be more effective than outright murder, since there is no danger of a Goy victim gaining martyrdom in the minds of the Goyim.

Threats against loved ones & other hostages: This deterred Henry Ford, & even co-opted him to stop publication of "The International Jew," & to avoid supporting Charles Lindbergh, Jr. for U.S. president, when it counted.

Sowing defeatism: By touting ZOG's 'overwhelming power.'

Sowing apathy: By denying that ZOG exists.

Use of natural resources to advance ZOG policies: By exploiting the normal ignorance & egotism of Goyim.

Use of the 'jewstice' system: Even if trumped-up charges will not stick, the Goy victim goes broke defending himself. ZOG has the best justice money can buy, so no Goy can match ZOG's bucks.

Imposing diversity: This goes back to The Tower of Babel Fable. If a number of voices does not confuse sufficiently, then have many listeners of different cultures, languages & identities.

Distractions: Gull the Goyim with amusements. Tout trivia as important, as with election circuses, sports & celebrity commotion.

Information overload: Goyim are bewildered, scared & apathetic amid news of 'crises', real, imaginary &/or exaggerated.

Information under-coverage: Goyim are lulled by non-reporting of important events which affect their well-being in long or short term.

Gradualism: ZOG can advance its policies over centuries via consistent pressure.

Suddenness: ZOG can create sudden crises which overwhelm the Goyim's ability to learn & to think, as with Pearl Harbor; 9-11 et al.

This is just the tip of the iceberg of ZOG & its methods. DOWZ! ORION!
