"NEWS IF UNREPORTED HAS NO IMPACT. IT MIGHT AS WELL NOT HAVE HAPPENED AT ALL."

IMPROVEMENTS AND CHANGES

NEW FORMAT MEANS INCREASED COVERAGE

This will be the last issue under the masthead of Eagle Newsletter. The Revisionist Observer will continue as a quarterly, but... it will enlarge from the present eight pages to twelve, and some issues will have even more. The focus will move from news events to the history that led up to the news. And, oh, yeah – no subscription increase. Such a deal! And, if you are a new reader, we hope you will subscribe; see last item below.

READERS GET MORE, NOT LESS

All Eagle Newsletter subscribers will automatically be subscribed to new and larger Revisionist Observer. If you subscribe to both newsletters (as many of you do), your Revisionist Observer subscription will simply be extended. If you feel like you need additional printed news coverage, just check out some of the great newspapers and newsletters featured on our Bulletin Board. But before I go on to tell you about some of the specific changes, let me say one thing: if, after a couple of issues, you really don't like the new format, let me know and I will refund a prorated subscription to you. Ok, so let's see what the "new look" will be.

SAY HELLO TO HARD CORE HISTORY AND HARD HITTING COMMENTARY Our Columnists Will Continue To Appear

My own pieces will continue, as will Yancy Ames' exclusive columns. Look for our regular guest columnists: Eric Thomson, Mark Farrell, Cushman Cunningham (Leela Publishing); and, not to forget our occasional columnists: Dr. Adrian Krieg, Michael Nelson, Tony Boland, Douglas Nelson, and perhaps some others I may have overlooked. [And, let's take this opportunity to remember Pamila Emmerich's thought provoking columns; this dear lady passed away unexpectedly 8/14/04.] If you think about many of their columns, many of them had a strong historical content anyway. Expect to see them return very soon.

We are not featuring our columnists in this issue as I am taking this opportunity to address my readers more personally. On pp. 4-6 are some (hopefully) meaningful photographic images I have collected. Consider this the first installment of a feature we'll call "History In The News". I know that many of our readers like to share literature with others through the mail, so here is some great stuff to add to the mix.

OTHER FEATURES WILL CONTINUE AS WELL

Our "Bulletin Board", where we feature our cooperating exchange subscribers and other worthy information sources, will continue. As always, we will offer interesting and hard-to-find items such as books, CDs, Videotapes, DVDs, etc. We will continue occasional e-mail bulletins and will update the website, <http://hometown.aol.com/eaglenewstips>, with brand new features, including several of Yancy Ames' columns, and we will rework our site at <http://hometown.aol.com/eaglerevisionist> as well, and my book, THE NEW JIHAD, still appears at <http://hometown.aol.com/eaglenewsdesk>. Eagle Newsletter will continue to appear on-line as an occasional e-mail news bulletin.

SO, WHAT HAVE YOU "LOST"?

Actually, very little. Once you remove my own commentary and those of the various columnists, plus the space devoted to various items for sale, space for the address and mailing information, and the "Bulletin Board", you are left with news items, accounting for less than half of the eight-page content. The new Revisionist Observer will have 12 pages.

OK, SO WHY HAVE I DONE THIS?

In the age of Internet and 24-hour news channels, I have, for a time now, questioned the necessity of news coverage in publications such as mine. Others have either failed or become frustrated, moving on to other projects. We always brought you news that either you had not seen elsewhere and/or brought significant commentary. In this, I believe we were very successful, so I have no feelings of failure whatever. Overall, I feel great about Eagle Newsletter and what it was able to do in a five year run. As you may remember, even the ADL noticed us in an item that is still on their website. Naturally, I considered this a badge of honor. I always look for ways to improve Eagle Publications, and my first love is history, so here we go! To boot, I have 250,000+/- words on a number of subjects. These need to be edited and formatted for possible book length features as well as articles. Selections from this will appear in upcoming Revisionist Observers. And, I am writing a dissertation (on the real history and founding of the Islamic religion), leading to a theological degree, so I need time to complete this properly, which means time. Moreover, I continue as a Contributing Editor to The Barnes Review, and want to appear more often in those pages. See our Bulletin Board to subscribe to this great historical journal. My article in the current issue, "Judaism and Islam, Some Surprising Similarities", will be in our next newsletter. My article on "Islam and Race" will also soon appear in TBR.

I sincerely believe that you will like the changes in Eagle Publications. This last issue of The Eagle Newsletter will lead into our new format with some very special news items from the past. I am personally gratified by the support I have already received from a still-growing list of subscribers. I promise you even more exclusive and always interesting features in the newsletters to follow. All my very best wishes to each and every one of our subscribers and contributors. "Hard Core History" will be fun! Come along for the ride.

HOLO-HOAX DEBUNKING KIT

To start off our "Hard Core History" features, check this out. This is in salute to Ernest Zundel and a host of others, who, like the heretics of old, have been (as others eventually will be) imprisoned and oppressed solely because their views do not correspond with and kowtow to what the Judeo-Christian Zionist Establishment decrees, ex cathedra, from Jerusalem and New York, to be the only acceptable version of the truth. Not only check out and order some of the material below, but copy this entire issue – but especially pp. 4 and 5. Here you will find two "news from the past" documents, addressing the actual number of Jews in the world before the conflagration of the Second World War. These are easily verifiable. Suggestion: copy the whole issue or order some more from us, but photocopy p. 4 and p. 5 on large ledger size (11x17) paper so that you can enlarge them for very easy reading. Many, many intelligent people have never really seriously considered the evidence provided by so-called holocaust revisionists. Once they take a closer, unbiased look, they are most often quite surprised by the mass of evidence to the contrary of the politically and religiously correct versions of World War Two era history. As to the numbers, the magic number of 6,000,000 is clearly of Cabalistic significance (number of perfect souls times ten), and was even invoked as early as 1919 as to imaginary World War One atrocities against Jews. Ben Weintraub, in his Holocaust Dogma of Judaism (privately published, 1995) clearly demonstrates this and much more. This book is out of print and hard to find, but well worth trying to acquire, if you can find it. Our delightful literary comrade, Dr. Margaret Stucki, did the fascinating cover art. To find out more about the book, you may write her at Christian Cultural Center, 1050 E. Center St., Pocatello ID 83201-5201.

The third photo, p. 6, is a very cogent and succinct article about the true identity of the people today called "Jews". There is a lot of Internet "chatter" right now attempting to refute the theory that they AshkeNAZI Jews of Eastern Europe are largely Khazarian in origin. I have a rather extensive paper on the matter that will either appear in The Barnes Review and/or in The Revisionist Observer, but there is no time for it now. The article from the Sydney Jewish News speaks for itself. The Khazar convert Jews are, by far, the largest contingent in so-called and self-styled "Israel". They are not Semites and, other than adopting a rather extreme form of the modern-day (NOT ancient) Talmudic religion, they have no connection to the ancient lands of Palestine.

This article on the Khazars could be a very influential introductory tool for someone who has not seen such ideas before. It is easily verified and, of course, could lead a reader to much, much more on the subject. Photocopy and distribute it.

THE EXPERIMENT This specialized presentation scientifically and rationally poses the question, "Were Homicidal Gassings in the Nazi Concentration Camps Technically and Chemically Possible?" See an actual on-site experiment that proved the hypothesis beyond a reasonable doubt.

THE NEW WORLD ORDER A very well-made presentation on the N.W.O. and several articles showing how holocaust claims, esp. those about gassing, are false are not only false, but technologically impossible. This is a powerful tool to introduce revisionist ideas and alternative theories of history. Includes The Protocols of Zion and a lot more!

The regional division above follows that of the United States Census Bureau, except that Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia are here not considered as parts of the South but of the North, a change introduced ten years ago to meet the requirements of the distribution of the Jews.

The 1938 U. S. Census of religious denominations gave the number of members of Jewish congregations as 4,041,184, as against 4,081,242 in 1926, the figures for 1926 representing all Jews in communities having congregations.

The United States religious census of 1906 credited the Jews with 191,457 heads of families, principally male heads, and the census of 1915 fixed the number of heads of families (including rent holders and other contributors) but admittedly incomplete, at 357,135.

There were Jews in the original American colonies before 1650. In New York, then New Amsterdam, there were Jews in 1654, and in the fall of that year a company of Jewish refugees arrived from Brazil and settled in the colony.

The Congregation Shearith Israel (Remnant of Israel) was founded in 1656. The first minister was Saul Moreno (Brown) who came from Newport, R. I., and the synagogue was on Mill St., now South William St.

Unravelling the mystery of the Khazars

Title: The Rabbi King: David of Khazaria. A Historical Adventure
Author: Monroe S. Kuttner
Publisher: Xibris/Random House
Reviewer: Gabriel A Sivan

ALTHOUGH a work of fiction, this is one of several books that testify to renewed interest in the Khazars — a formerly nomadic people of Turkish stock whose ruling class embraced Judaism in or around 740 CE and established an empire stretching from the Crimea to the Aral Sea.

By tradition, it was after a debate between representatives of Judaism, Christianity and Islam, in which the Jewish arguments proved most convincing — that King Bulan made Khazaria Jewish.

The faith that he adopted contained an admixture of paganism, however, and non-native rabbinic Judaism was introduced only by his successors.

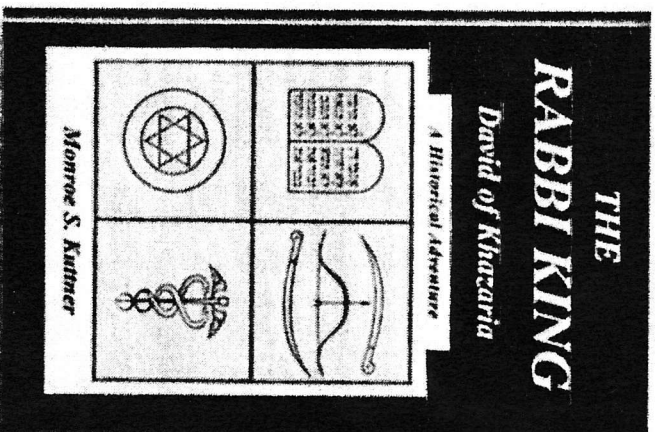

Khazar merchants traded throughout the Near East; Khazar troops helped the Magyars conquer Hungary and joined the Byzantines in a war against Persia. Vague accounts of this remote but powerful empire heartened Jewish communities in Western Europe and inspired Judah Halevi's famous exposition of Judaism, Sefer ha-Kuzari.

Tragically, from 965, the Khazar state declined and eventually collapsed under savage Russian and other attacks.

"However, it is documented that Khazars, and a land called Khazaria, existed well into the early 13th century, probably in the area of Russian Dagestan and Chechnya," writes Monroe Kuttner, author of The Rabbi King, who did a great deal of research.

True enough, Khazars appear to have survived as an ethnic group until the Mongol invasion in 1237, and the last remnants were no doubt absorbed by Jewish, Karaitic and Christian populations.

Kuttner evidently believes that there were Khazars among his ancestors in Hungary and Russia. On that basis, he invents a khangar or king named David, Khazaria's last ruler — during the years 1150-1170 — whose empire is limited to what is now Dagestan.

Ordained as a rabbi in Cordova, where young Moshe ben Maimon was a fellow student, David returns from Spain and has difficulty adjusting to life in a world remote from traditional Judaism and to his role as a warrior king. Furthermore, he must now face enemies without — the Polovtsi — and within, his ambitious uncle.

The ensuing adventures take David from Khazaria to Constantinople, Jerusalem, Syria, Persia, Azerbaijan, and then back to Khazaria. He displays wisdom and courage; becomes the trusted friend of Saladin; evades the assassins hired to kill him; and is fancifully identified with David Alroy, who led a Jewish messianic movement in 12th-century Kurdistan.

The author of this historical romance combines a vivid imagination with an ability to portray character. He is well versed in Jewish practice, but indulges in anachronisms — describing a bar mitzvah ceremony 300 years before it was instituted and the wearing of embroidered skullcaps imported "from a Jewish community in Bukhara, east of the Caspian".

Kuttner may be unaware of an earlier novel on the same theme, Samuel Gordon's The Lost Kingdom, or the Passing of the Khazars (London, 1926). He would also have benefited by viewing the Israel Television documentary Mamlakat ha-Kuzarim (The Khazar Kingdom, 1997) with Ehud Ya'ari, which focused on relics of Khazaria that Russian officialdom still tries to conceal — objects d'art, Torah scrolls, ancient manuscripts, gravestones and archaeological finds bearing witness to the flourishing Jewish civilisation in pre-Christian southern Russia.

Despite my initial scepticism, I was intrigued by The Rabbi King. If it helps to shed more light on the Khazars and rescue them from an undeserved oblivion, so much the better.

To understand how what historian Solomon Grayzel terms "a belligerent tribe of half-Mongolian people" came to convert to Judaism — and the legends surrounding their conversion — readers can turn to any number of sources, including: The Encyclopaedia Judaica, always the best place to start research on virtually any Jewish-related topic. It includes a long entry on the Khazars, as well as a useful bibliography.

There is also a fascinating entry on the "Chazars" in the venerable pre-World War I Jewish Encyclopedia (London).

Other volumes on the subject include The Kuzari: An Argument for the Faith of Israel, a philosophical treatise by Spanish Jewish philosopher and poet Judah Halevi (1075-1141), written in the form of a Platonic dialogue, purportedly between the king of the Khazars and representatives of Islam, Christianity and Judaism; and The Thirteenth Tribe: The Khazar Empire and Its Heritage by Arthur Koestler, a revisionist view of the Khazars used by opponents of Zionism to argue that contemporary Jews are non-Semitic converts to the faith.

FREE FREE FREE FREE FREE RUSS GRANATA VIDEOTAPE

Exclusively for our readers. When Russ passed away last year, he left several items with friends such as Guillermo Coletti, whom we thank for shipping the videos to us. If you subscribe or extend your subscription ($20), we'll send you one free, postage paid.

But that's not all. Any reader can have one free, but we do ask that you donate $5 ($10 if out of USA) for shipping and handling by U.S. Priority Mail. If you put in a note that you would like some of our surplus printed materials (from many sources), if available, let us know and we include some for you. Thanks.

If you ever heard Russ in person or by recording, you know that he was both an excellent historian writer and an accomplished speaker, addressing revisionist conferences all over the world. He was also an accomplished interviewer and narrator, as demonstrated in the video.

Mr. Granata, lecturing in Moscow, 2002.

This is the story of an event in Rome, near the end of the war. Germany was losing, but still occupied Italy. Italian partisans, many of them nothing but communists and bandits, came out to play their hand, knowing that change was surely in the air. While German troops were marching down a street, what we now call an IED, Improvised Explosive Device (that is, a bomb) was concealed in a garbage truck, exploding to kill and wound several German soldiers, not unlike what is going on in Baghdad today. The German authorities ordered reprisals, now spoken of as a classic "war crime" and "atrocities". But what really happened? Who were the executed Italians? SS Capt. Priebke knew the story – you can too.

SOME VERY WISE WORDS

[A year or so ago, Eric Thomson sent me an unsigned postcard he had received with the words below hand printed on it. We ran this before, but read it again – very closely -- as we begin our "Hard Core History" project. Current events surely bear this out!]

We don't pay close attention to the enemy.

He's vain. He has newspapers devoted to himself. Very few of us pay attention to these. The complete picture may be gleaned from them.

Really, his game and goals are transparent, if we turn our view in a different direction.

We have no excuse for losing.

"Historical Revisionism has been poignantly described by those who labor to carefully look back again and correctively revise the record, as being one of the great intellectual adventures of our age. Both scorn and honor are their pay."

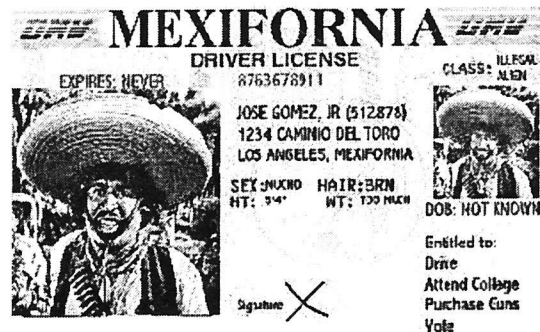

Russ Granata.

"There are two levels of historical reality. The first is the general so-called public opinion that is served to the average citizen by the mass media and will later, because of the persons writing it down, become history. The second one, though, is made up of the happenings that are not revealed to the public. This is the world of the machinations by secret lodges and secret societies which interlink capital, politics, economy and religion. On this level, nations are made, wars are instigated, presidents and leaders are put into office and, in case they don't function, eliminated."

"Jan van Helsing" in Secret Societies And Their Power In The 20th. Century.
