

22 MAY 05. Dear Paul: Many thanks for your outstanding mailing of May 15th! It is gratifying to see that you are using the revolutionary technology of the computer on behalf of political action as the jewfinance-fiddler, Soros, has been doing. The advent of the computer has put us on an equal playing field with the jewsmedia monopolists of pre-computer times. Many of us lack the understanding of the Internet's potential. As one correspondent said: It is as if the blightwing had a Rolls Royce which they only used for heating their milktoast on the hood. The Internet can serve activists as well as journalists, as you are demonstrating.

I really appreciated your description of The Wealth Tax as "conservative", because it justly deprives fatcat crooks of their ill-gotten gains. After all, it serves as a graduated income tax, which was promoted by Marxists & their Rockefeller cohorts. This issue is not only relevant, it is timely, for even ZOG-Germans complain about the concentration of wealth in fewer & fewer hands, at the expense of the tax-payers, as occurs under any usury regime. As the poor become more numerous & the rich become fewer, it is logical & necessary for the victimized majority to respond against the minority who victimize them.

It appears to me that your Wealth Tax would have a wide appeal to the majority, who are Marxist & broke, as well to conservatives who are also broke. The Marxists have done a lot of work in spreading the message of "tax the rich", despite the fact that the rich were the funders of Marxism from Day One, & they still are. Your message is "tax the crooks", or as Teddy Roosevelt described them: "The malefactors of great wealth." I recommend that!

I would think that your idea would have broad support, not only from the hard-pressed citizens who pay taxes, but also from the mestizo invaders who want more income & who demand more & more public services from the tapped-out tax-payers. Obviously, if California's public coffers were full of ill-gotten gains, it would reduce the tax burden & allow for the increase of public services to the infinitely-multiplying alien population. In other words, we can enlist the aliens against the fatcat felons who invited them in, in the first place. What ironic justice that will be!

Your idea of taxing the crooks who leave the state is already done in Canada, which taxes honest people who change their residence from Canada to other countries, except for the Bronfmans', of course, who were allowed to transfer billions from Canada to other countries. These taxes could be made retroactive, as I believe the IRS has done.

These ideas can be debated, endlessly, of course, but if we can gather sufficient support for them, debate becomes irrelevant, for might makes right.

Keep up the great work! DOWN! & ORION!
