

15 JEWLIE 05. Hail Ron! Many thanks for your letter of Jewlie 12th & the outstanding enclosures, especially your essay on "Authentic Man", which was true gourmet food for thought.

I'm glad you now receive White Voice, as I do, & that you have someone to whom you can pass it on. Brownest Yakima is a cultural wasteland, even in Spanish, so readers are almost as rare as thinkers, Ostensible Whites included. This obvious land of ZOG-zombies largely proves the thesis of "Authentic Man": that the masses are asleep, dreaming the dreams indoctrinated by their oppressors. As Mark Twain advised: we should dream better dreams. You have done a great job of addressing basic concepts of being. How do we define ourselves as individuals, as only rare individuals have done? Descartes posited his existence as "I think, therefore I am." The reverse is equally true: I am, therefore I think. Goering asked if one's quantity of consumption defined one's existence, & he concluded that it did not. Our bodies determine our composition & our condition, but even their wellbeing & existence depend on what our minds cause our bodies to do. We exist, then, in terms of our thoughts & deeds. As one of my fictional characters opined: he was the sum of all his chosen experiences. And we are more than that if we are aware of ourselves in regard to our experiences, as if we were taking pictures of our surroundings, & also taking pictures of ourselves within our surroundings & activities. As Thoreau wrote: "The unexamined life is not worth living." To be truly alive & awake, we must be conscious & self-conscious in our relations with our environment & with others. Only a conscious, awake & self-aware person can choose to some extent what he will do in life. Otherwise, he lets others choose for him, & sinks into a sub-human, monkey-see-monkey-do existence, as John Stuart Mill noted. It appears that the vast majority of featherless bipeds is only suited for life on such a simian level, whether it be from ignorance or desire on their parts.

Many have obviously defined themselves as consumers, & they see themselves in terms of their incomes & possessions, their "net worth", rather than their experiences & character. Most people are far too busy working to obtain that which they consume to define themselves in terms outside their parameters of work & consumption. Any leisure they may obtain for thought is thoughtlessly devoted to more consumption in the form of brainwashing 'entertainment', for thinking is also a matter of choice. I chose to MAKE TIME AVAILABLE for thought & for contemplation, which enhanced the value of my experiences. Slower means of travel, for instance, greatly accelerated my learning about the places & peoples en route. I could have flown around the world in a much shorter time, but I would have obtained only fleeting memories of airports, which bear surprising similarities with one another! As other writers have noted, self-discovery is necessary if we are to discover our true destiny, our most relevant role in the Universe, in our brief lifetimes.

When I see others who are unhappy because they are not living their own lives, but alien existences which they have accepted as the pattern for their own lives, I wonder if they will ever make the wrenching decision to leave their 'straitened' lives behind. Usually, they die as a result of alienation, of their daily attempts to be something they are not. I do not say that a person can be totally selfish, as an island unto himself, for that is impossible, as well as undesirable. We see the results of irresponsible selfishness throughout North America in the dearth of a White Folk Consciousness: pale-skinned, niggerized zombies, asleep unto death. Will any awaken before they pass from one state of unconsciousness into the next? I doubt it. Individual indolence + jewsmedia indoctrination + peer group pressure are potent factors on behalf of ZOG-zombiehood, which is further reinforced by habits of years & decades.

In regard to the tragic & criminal behavior of ZOG-gulagniks toward Order member Yarbrough at the U.S. Penitentiary in Atlanta, I see it as "cruel & unusual punishment", which is forbidden in terms of the U.S. Constitution. Unfortunately, this cruel mistreatment of prisoners in ZOG custody has become "usual" for prisoners whose religion &/or politics are deemed "politically incorrect" by ZOG. I happened to see a glimpse of a ZOG torture chamber in Guantanamo which was featured on a TV newscast. I commented to another viewer that we seem to be in the same league as the Gestapo & NKVD. The other viewer said, "But it's necessary to defeat 'the terrorists'." I said, "I do not question the methods, but the hypocrisy." One thing is sure: As U.S. sheeple become more tolerant of torture at Guantanamo & other U.S. facilities, mistreatment of U.S. citizens in U.S. prisons is likely to become much worse, if that is possible, for political dissidents will be linked to "terrorists" (undefined), for whom all manner of mistreatments are deemed 'justified'. Ancient historians have noted the connection between "terror" & tyranny, & what we are seeing in the U.S.A. is a textbook example thereof. Since we refuse to learn, we are likely to repeat the lesson of history in our own times.

ORION! E.T.
