

19 NOV 05. Hail D.R.! I can finally reply to yours of NOV 8th amid this flurry of correspondence, or this tsunami, if you'd prefer. I could also describe it as a Katrina of correspondence, or a holocaust of letter-writing (if I were jewish). So we have our choice of wet, dry or flaming, but it sure beats no correspondence at all! This is my excuse for avoiding gang-related activities so favored by our 'hispanic' youth. In my now free time, I am exploring parts of Yakima which I never had time to do, when I was working 7 days a week at part-time coolie jobs at minimum wage. I used to live on the border of Yakima's "Zone D", a barrio in SE Yakima so heavily 'spiculated' that the Blacks moved out. Note: do barrios employ baristas? If so, I'll pass on the info to job-seekers. Now, I notice that the barrio occupies NE Yakima, as well, with enclaves in the NW. In fact, the less 'hispanic' parts of Yakima consist only of a narrow axis formed by Yakima Avenue, which runs EW, & First Street, the main NS route, including the railroad corridor. One sees much more on foot than on a drive-through tour. The barrios show definite signs of Turd World living standards: lawns turned into parkinglots & shanty residences with boards instead of window glass, either abandoned or semi-abandoned or fully-occupied by the sullen brown denizens. If it were not for the remaining trees left by the previous Anglo occupiers, these streets would remind me of Colombia, & with their deteriorating pavements, they will resemble Colombia's, mucho más! I chose to make my stroll on a very cold, but bright, sunny day, so the mestizos would not be perched on their porches or loitering in the streets. I've had quite a few mean looks, so I avoid strolls in the barrio, & usually stick to the main thoroughfares. Our freedom to walk anywhere without trespassing on private property has vanished in many parts of the USA, where ethnic no-go zones now exist. Think Civil War Two, as Chittum would say. When encountering hispano-mestizos on the streets, the Gringo had better be male, rather than female, to avoid insults or worse. When passing a mestizo male adult, a curt nod is best, rather than a verbal greeting, which is construed that the Gringo is a fag. Remember: you are on HIS people's turf, so you are an unwelcome guest. Younger spics should be observed, but otherwise ignored, merely to avoid collisions. Do not stare! It is good to look cheerful, for a stern expression can convey hostility, thereby inciting attacks. Naturally, it is wise to avoid looking prosperous, which I can do very easily, attired as I am like a Gringo panhandler, which Humphrey Bogart portrayed very well in "The Treasure of the Sierra Madres." Of course, I recommend minimal interaction with the dark denizens in the form of acknowledgement which shows respect, but not fear. A fearful demeanor invites assault, just like being female or prosperous. A Gringo with groceries in a barrio is also an invitation for unwelcome attention. That is why I stay on main roads, as a pedestrian. For many, if not most denizens of America, the car is a cop-out, in addition to being a dubious convenience. As streets, neighborhoods & public transportation become darker & more dangerous to Whites, & others, cars are preferred, even in cities like Jew York City or San Francisco, where car ownership is insane, unless one lives out of town. Firstly, there is no place to drive, due to traffic, & there are few places to park, but when I lived in 'Frisco, during the Black Zebra killings, Whites would drive to avoid being gunned down on the streets &/or mugged on public transportation. I could not afford a car, so I carried a gun instead. Of course, there was some bylaw which violated the 2nd Amendment, but I ignored that, having taken an oath to "defend The Constitution" when I entered the U.S. Army. Hey, life is a risk & it's always fatal, in the end, so "What, me worry?" My life was the only thing of importance which I had to lose, so I took the risk of having some means with which to defend it.

As you wrote, some space is 'more equal' than others in regard to the quality needed for survival. There is probably lots of open real estate in Death Valley, unless water has been piped in. I have been there at the wrong time of year, with no air-conditioning, & I know that Furnace Creek is well-named. As The Law of the Contrary dictates, where you most need air-conditioning, you must switch it off. That is advised as one drives in Death Valley, by roadside warning signs. People who ignore those warnings & drive with their A/C on often leave dark circles on the pavement to mark the spot where their cars burned up, literally.

Speaking of burning cars, jewsradio's last report on the Afro-Moslem riots in France claimed that 'only' 98 cars were burned the day before yesterday. Double-double good! As you said, it does look as if the foolish French will try to buy off their racial & cultural enemies. Why can't people call that "appeasement"? That is what it is, & cowardly to boot. But, as the jews like, it is kosher to appease racial enemies, but never our Nazi friends. Now, that's real double-think!

It will prove beneficial to shun crowds, especially in the event of an Avian Flu pandemic!

2) The determination to survive in the earthy terms depicted in "Flesh & Blood" are likely to become prerequisites for survival in our own lifetimes, if they are not already. Life has long been cheap, & the more of it, the cheaper it becomes. ZOG knows! America was not invaded & settled with 'sweetness & light', so those who believe in such an illusion are doomed to believe that such fictions work in the present, as the jewsmedia & their liberal Christiansane dupes prate endlessly. Such idiots & crooks make "Camp of the Saints" likely.

ZOG likely knows if the racial unrest in Europe will occur in North America, as it did when the jew-led student riots broke out in France & the USA, back in the 1960's. Both movements coincided with the French colonial war in Algeria & the U.S. colonial war in Indochina alias The Vietnam War. I would not be surprised to see a Black Muslim rebellion here, soon, using the New Orleans scandal as a good pretext, plus the ZOG's reduction in buy-off tribute to the non-White poor, as has been bandied about by the jewsmedia. As I said, the revolutionary potential of Hurricane Katrina et al. is much greater than all the "terrorist bombings" in U.S. history, for the 'homeland', in current jewspeak has been hit harder than any external enemy could do previously. After all, The Titanic's collision with the iceberg was hardly noticed by the passengers!

Yes, skilled, motivated & informed groups can defeat numerous foes, but can they hold the territory? The Aryan conquerors of India could teach us by their victories & their subsequent defeat by genetic absorption. The same was true of Alexander's fleeting conquests. This is why Hitler wanted genetic purity & contiguous conquests, rather than the Roman style bubble of inclusive imperialism, which perished from lack of Romans. The U.S. empire is even less substantial, as events are proving.

I tuned in, without turning on or dropping out, as Drs. Leary & Alpert alias Ram Dass have advised those who don't know anything better. Today, I heard the controversy in regard to a former U.S. Marine Corps veteran who urged in Congress that the U.S. pull out from Iraq, a.s.a.p. An active-duty Marine commander in Iraq said that "Marines do not cut & run. That's what cowards do." Well, Marines are not really men, but tools of their regime, under ZOG. A man retains his conscience & his judgement, but a Marine obeys orders without question. A citizen & a patriot retains his or her critical faculties & judgement, unlike military personnel, who live primarily for their units & for their orders, not their country, nor its people & even less for the Constitution they have sworn to defend. Thus, Marines will "cut & run" (withdraw, retreat, &c.) when they are order^{ed} to do so by their Commander-in-Chief. Cowardice has nothing to do with their behavior. I recall that two Arabs in a breadvan blew the Marines out of Lebanon during the Reagan regime. In previous times, such an incident would have been cause for war, but Reagan ordered his forces to "cut & run", as they did. Military involvement is not a question of machismo. It is a question of perceived interests on the part of a country's rulers. This is how we distinguish soldiers from savage warriors. Of course, our Zionist invasion of Iraq was certainly NOT in our interests as Americans, as remains true in all our former wars, except The Mexican War, which we have currently lost. As a soldier, I have been prepared to sacrifice myself for the "great^{er} good", just as I was prepared to do as a citizen & as a patriot, but when I perceived my leaders to be enemies of the greater good, I could not accept their orders, & I did not, whatever the risk to my immediate well-being. This form of courage & principle are the minimum requirements of anyone who would call himself a man, a citizen & a patriot. As we learned at Nuremberg, some orders are 'more equal' than others, which is the legal precedent I follow. I said this to my company commander back in 1961, & I'll say it again, even with a gun muzzle at the back of my head. Soviet hospitality included "The Lubyanka Breakfast": a cigarette & a bullet in the back of the neck. I would, however, refuse the cigarette, for smoking is hazardous to one's health. The Germans have a wise saying that real humor is in being^{able} to laugh at your own expense. Without humor, we are poor indeed. This is why I now declare: Fellow misfits unite! We have nothing to lose but our ZOG! I recommend this statement for inclusion in The Anti-Zionist Manifesto.

As usual, I advise that you don't let the bastards grind you down. People who live in different worlds, psychologically, are like members of other species, so I view them as I view the varied fauna on the African veldt or in the Amazon jungle: all share the same environment, but they are all different, & they coexist with me. Just as I am not a zebra or a tapir, I am not a Zionist-loving consumption-excretion unit, & neither are you, so we should make the most of our differences from the masses of asses. All the best, as always. DOWZ! & ORION! E.T.
