

20 Jewlie 06. Hail Joshua! Many thanks for your great letter of Jewlie 10th. Thanks for giving me your 'outside' address, which I shall write to, instead of your ZOG-gulag, which you will, hopefully, leave within a month or so.

I agree with your analysis of religions & myths as crutches & as opiates, particularly in the case of Christinsanity, which one writer describes as a 'death-wish' mythology or cult. J.B. Campbell wrote that the ancient Aryan writers of The Rig Vedas were firmly based on realism, which became their religion, with poetic, beautiful appreciation of Nature's magnificence & power. If we watch a sunrise or sunset, for example, our knowledge of what's happening does not diminish our sense of beauty in any way. The fact that beautiful music comes from the human members of an orchestra does not detract from the quality of the music, & also makes us appreciate the people who play it so well. If some prefer to believe that the music comes from gods & is played for us by angels, the quality & the enjoyment remain. I tend to believe that nigger noise emanates from demons, since they would be an appropriate source for such racket, black ones, at that. I have concluded that life is not so bad that I must seek escape in the form of illusions or myths. Death comes to close the chapter, & as some speculate, to open a new one, as Franz Liszt imagined in his "Les Preludes." Ricard Strauss who wrote "Death & transfiguration" as a young man, allegedly told his daughter that his approaching death was just as he'd described it in that tone-poem, which I also think is beautiful. For some reason, I associate that piece with the sea, from which my ancestors came & to which we return, if we follow our instincts.

Religions & myths can serve constructive purposes, as you mention. In my view, ancient Aryan religions, myths & sagas, including Aesop's Fables, Grimm's Fairy Tales, &c. provide us with a framework of understanding, upon which we can hang our own experiences. That is the purpose of cultures. The hero myth is ancient & modern, a hero being one man or woman who takes on great tasks, which can only be admired by us mere mortals & wimps. Heroes are for us to look up to, & to strive to emulate, as best we may. Hercules became our modern cowboy hero, for example, or the brave reporter or the private detective who may be on the outs with cops & crooks alike. The heroism may not be physical, as with "Conan the Barbarian," but it depicts moral bravery to one degree or another. The more recent Hebrewwood depictions of hero as anti-hero is an interesting variation on the hero myth, in which a normal wimp becomes heroic, often despite himself.

Gods & men are shown as making mistakes, from which we mortals may learn, for our benefit. Aryan Greek religion & plays made fate a major player, always, in the affairs of gods & men, & the lesson therein was that we had to play the cards we are dealt in life, to our best ability. One old German proverb said: "The gods will bring victory or defeat in battle, but you must bring the courage."

I agree that the best or worst part of any religion or myth is its operational program. When the context is provided, what are we supposed to DO? This is why variants of Buddhism are called "The Way" or "The Path." Some religions are depicted as a way of reaching a goal, such as "the path of righteousness." Others are the destination of our journey, such as virtue. If a man has virtue, whatever may befall him is of no moral consequence. His morals remain intact unto death. National Socialism was not nullified by military defeat in 1945. On the contrary, the 'victors' of World War II have vindicated its principles by doing the opposite of NS tenets, wherever possible! In Kuhn's book on "The Theory of Scientific Revolutions," he posits that the more rigorously we apply a scientific theory, the more certain it is that it will be exploded, as the discovery of "X-rays" did to the former atomic theory. A theory is described as a framework which functions like a coat & hatrack. The things we believe to be facts can be hung on that theoretical framework, but, eventually, along comes an admitted fact which cannot be hung thereon. If the existing theory cannot explain such a fact, then the theory must be replaced! This is, in theory, how science functions, if the politics of 'political correctness' can be removed, which is now as powerful as it was under Stalin, in regard to race & heredity, which are 'not supposed to exist,' but the more they are denied, the more they appear.

"Creativity" is open to your own revision & interpretation, like any other religion. As one writer observed, if you drop a Bible on the street, someone will pick it up & start a new church or synagogue. That's why the Catholic Church resisted Bible-translation into common languages for so long! Religious rascals know what's good for them. I met Ben Klassen in 1976. His "White Man's Bible" struck me more like a "White Man's Talmud," but I saw some

2) racial relevance therein. Christ-eaters & blood-sippers interpret their religion with selectivity & imagination, so you may do the same with Creativity. You can also invent a new religion which fulfills all your worldly & 'other-worldly' desires. As Mark Twain advised: "Dream better dreams!" A recent example, albeit not good, is L.Ron Hubbard's Church of Scientology. Other cults such as the Moonies, Heaven's Gate, People's Temple, &c. are proof that any cult, no matter how kookie, can attract followers, who become willing zombies, perhaps on behalf of 'togetherness.' Klassen's titles, such as Pontifex Maximus & "Salubrious Living" are unlikely to stimulate & motivate supporters. I'd guess that a book entitled "Lugubrious Living" would attract more buyers amongst 'Goths' & fans of Charles Addams. Done properly, it could be a best-seller. Tuxedo-merchants would support it, since readers would be urged to dress like Count Dracula, always attired for one's own funeral.

Your observations of "neo-Nazis" & skinheads is a continuation of a bad start which I observed from the beginning in Britain & North America. As I understand, skinheads were displaced, unemployed British workingclass youth who saw no place in British society & no future. They became nihilists, hedonists & hooligans. To enhance their 'bad' reputations, they adopted Nazi insignia, slogans & salutes, with no understanding of National Socialism nor any apparent wish to do so, similar to the Hell's Angels' motorcycle club: "We are bad, but don't ask how or why!" Hebrewood says 'Nazis are bad', so a fascist fashion statement does the job, with nary an iota of understanding. As you note, drugs & alcohol reduce the warrior image to an illusion in due course, & I am often surprised to learn how quickly a healthy youth can ruin himself or herself. These are denizens of a death-wish cult who are unfit to be White Nationalists or National Socialists, or even members of an otherwise viable society. I have heard of 'necro-Nazis', but not 'needle-Nazis,' until you mentioned it. Thanks for that addition to my vocabulary! Yes, they are all "Not-sees."

When I still had a job, before it left for India, some whiggers wanted to give me a 'high-five'. Since I was leaving the room, I told them I could not give them personal high-fives, since I was in a hurry, but I could give them all a Roman high-five, so I snapped a smart SS-style salute. Later, after lunch, a girl said that my "Roman high-five" reminded her of a movie which she'd seen, but could not recall specifically. I told her that I'd also seen it in a movie: "there was a guy, some early rock-star, I think, who stood in an old-fashioned, classic limo. All his fans wanted to give him a high-five, but he was in a hurry to get to the airport, so he had no time to high-five them all. That's why he gave the million or so fans a Roman high-five, I guess. I recall that he had a moustache like Charlie Chaplin." This is a famous scene from "Triumph of the Will," but I did not tell her that. All she said was, "Who's Charlie Chaplin?" Not bad for a college grad, eh? I wonder if she knows anything about a "Rockwell," artist or otherwise. I doubt it.

I appreciate your brave self-evaluation. As I see it, the 'outside' of ZOG's gulags is fraught with dangers similar to those on the inside. How you will choose to live when you get out is largely up to you, since the hedonist values of our society actually promote the sort of behavior that can land one back in the gulag. The top-kick crooks of Enron are proponents of the Judeo-American Dream, like the druglords on the old series, "Miami Vice." With such 'heroes' as these, it is no wonder that so many denizens of North America & Europe seek escape in drugs, booze & kook-cults. Certainly, there are many bad examples to follow in our society! This poses a truly heroic challenge for us to create our own viable racial communities for our survival & self-improvement. Again, we must all start from scratch, as I wrote in "What We Can Do." For me, nothing has changed since I wrote it, although I have attempted to create such a community, with my limited means.

According to studies done on U.S. P.O.W.s by Chinese captors during The Korean War, fewer than one out of 20 have any leadership potential. Chinese guards who spoke no English were told to watch for "the man to whom other men listened, the man who could laugh in adversity & the man who showed courage in the face of an armed enemy, while he, himself, was disarmed." Such men were segregated from the 19 out of 20 sheeple, & put in tightly-guarded P.O.W. camps. These official U.S. Defence Dept. audiotapes revealed that not one U.S. P.O.W. escaped, & that one third of the sheeple died, mainly because there was nobody to tell them to do anything: not to gather firewood, not to eat & not to get out of bed. Without their natural leaders, otherwise healthy young men retired to their bunks & slept themselves to death! I was required to listen to these official tapes as a compulsory student of Air Force ROTC, when I was a college freshman in 1956. Needless to say, they made an impression on me! The Chinese sure had our number down pat as anarcho-hedonists in the selfish Jeffersonian tradition.

3) The Turks were quite different! Turkish P.O.W.s were told that they were "all equal," & that their military ranks no longer applied, as the U.S. prisoners were told. The Turks refused to obey the Chinese orders, so their officers were shot, then their sergeants. When the surviving Turkish prisoners continued to recognize their military ranks, down to senior private, the chinks gave up! Wimping out is the prelude to dying out. I've known that since 1956, but sheeple don't know that, & do not want to know. The Turkish community could not be broken, even if only one were left standing. The U.S. prisoners never had a community, as became obvious. That was true in the 1950's & it is truer now.

As you observe, prison is a way of life for many people. I've known former & pre-convicts who saw the prison environment as 'reality,' rather than civilian life, which seemed 'alien' to them. As a firefighter with the U.S. Forest Service, I met many members of convict labor crews, some of whom were quite informative. One told me during a rest-break that he was actually scared of leaving prison, for he would face all sorts of decisions in his daily life on the outside. He described to me vividly, how he feared getting on a bus, & telling the driver where he wanted to go. Another fellow has recurrent nightmares of being in a supermarket's cereal section, unable to choose a box of cereal from all the rest. Now the convicts would all speak Spanish or Ebonics, so such communication would be a problem. Highly-structured environments like the military, hospitals or prisons are entirely suited for sheeple who need to be told what to do, how to do it & when. Such institutions are not suited for the one out of 20 with leadership potential, such as initiative. That's why the Commies did their most to discourage personal initiative, which may lead to nonconformity, which may lead to revolt. My initiative led me to the Amazon River, & my escape from the Judeo-American Ratrace, I am happy to say, so virtue is indeed its own reward. I could see the prison aspects of this society as soon as I was required to attend elementary school, & it took me lots of patience to make good my escape. As the Jew, Erich Fromm, wrote: there are two types of freedom: freedom FROM & freedom TO. Fromm described those who fear freedom TO as "authoritarian personalities," that is, sheeple. Soldiers at The Presidio of Monterey, where I was stationed after Basic Training, could think of nothing to do, off duty, than to open their mouths & pour booze down them. I found many more interesting things to do & to see, so my alcohol-consumption was very low, although Monterey was the same place for them as it was for me. Gosh, maybe we aren't all 'equal!' Too bad Thomas Jefferson never quite sobered up to read the crap he wrote!

As you say, the best leader is he who leads by example.

In regard to National Socialism, Klassen, who alleged that it was "just for Germans" was wrong, even though Dr. Goebbels may have declared that "National Socialism was not for export." This line may have been to counter similar declarations made by Stalin, who lied that he merely supported "socialism in one country," after Trotsky's failed attempt to conquer Europe with the Red Army in the 1920's. National Socialism was first coined by Theodor Herzl, the founder of Zionist Israel. Any people can adopt NS as a system for improvement & survival. Since Whites belong to one race, why can't we adopt a pro-White system, like NS? By seeing ourselves as Whites, we can promote White Unity & White Nationhood, for nation is people, not place. That is why I coined the slogan (goal) that Our Race Is Our Nation! which is shortened to ORION! The Waffen SS was certainly pro-German, but its members were not, specifically, Germans, nor even Aryans. AZA (The Anti-Zionist Alliance) is my idea for non-White allies, even Jews, who work against the Zionist (Jew-supremacist) World Ordure. Allies are not kinfolk, as I try to teach allegedly pro-White Whites. For many Whites, there is lots & lots to learn. I have not learned by repeating my mistakes, by luck & by alertness, as you say you did. Hard lessons are the ones we learn best, I hope! My learning has been similar to that of a mouse in a maze: exploring passages which have dead ends, then backing out into new ones which may lead me to the cheese. Fortunately, I did not spend much time in discovering many dead ends, for I learned from others, before doing it myself, or NOT doing what they did, with dire results. Whatever I have done or not done is MY responsibility, no one else's. Not only does the buck stop here, but I can spend it as I please.

Savitri Devi described National Socialism as a temporal manifestation of cosmic truth. The Idea remains intact, regardless of Zionist defamation.

One writer declared "No revolution before its time," another way of saying objective conditions, about which we agree. As I also see things, political education is like First Aid training: it prepares us for the time in which we shall need it. The best argument for changing our ways is, unfortunately, hard knocks, events. A very small number of people

4) can create objective conditions by proper target-selection, which The Order NEVER did. There is not one strategic/revolutionary target in the entire "Turner Diaries," for example. Strategic targets are what people need, not people themselves. Thanks be to ZOG, I can say no more. "Useful idiots," like The Order, did ZOG's job, not ours, regardless of their intentions, similar to the OK City ZOG blg. bombing & 9-11. All actions must be analyzed in terms of "Cui bono?" (who benefits?). The idiotic argument is to say: "At least he or they DID SOMETHING!" I say, "Yes, but for whose benefit?" I argue with myself as to the merits or lack thereof, of saving sheeple from themselves. As a former colonial administrator, I was long ago cured of that illusion. If my race WANTS to become extinct, my arguments will not deter it. The desire to survive as a race must come within the blood, not from a book! If someone wants to survive, I can provide some information to assist him or her. In the end, it is like the old proverb that one can lead a horse to water, but can not make him drink. One's wellbeing begins within oneself, as does leadership. Others will know this by one's example. I reside amongst wrecks, many of them Vietnam vets who are 10 years younger than I am. They mostly ruined themselves by drugs, alcohol & over-eating, not combat wounds. Of course, they have mental problems, like one who freaks out & reports that there are "Gooks in the wire!" We all tell him that it's O.K., that the Gooks ran off. Combat does have its price in terms of traumatic memories, which would best be erased. It also has pleasant memories, like being fired upon & missed! Oh, tobacco-smoking is about as harmful as other drugs, since it adversely affects the lungs & heart. I never smoked because my father did, & he always complained about it. He never had to tell me not to smoke! I have seen leaders like Rockwell say "Follow me!" only to find himself all alone in no man's land, under enemy bombardment, while his supporters watch him from the safety of their trenches. Such brave leadership serves no one, as you noted. It just gives the ZOG an easy target. A soldier is trained in fire-discipline, so he does not waste ammo, nor betray his position prematurely. He learns not to fire when the enemy appears, but when he is within range. Real discipline is revealed when one is fired upon, yet, knows that he must not fire back. What provides immediate satisfaction may also ruin an entire campaign. That is going for a peanut instead of the Big Prize. Military thinking distinguishes tactics from strategy. Tactics must always be subordinate to strategy. As some say, "He won the battle, but lost the war!" Racially, the USA has 'won' many battles & its victories are always defeats for Whites, since they always result in fewer of us & more of non-Whites in our former living space. Guerrilla fighters, like us, must seek as many small, safe victories as possible, rather than gambling our limited resources on bigger, dangerous ones, which may prove to be big defeats. Our mere survival is a victory, of itself! Flinging ourselves on the fixed bayonets of the enemy is uncalled for, & serves only the enemy.

The most effective plan on behalf of Our Race is to raise a White family & do your best to educate them. So far, all I've accomplished is to stay out of debt & to put out a small amount of pro-White propaganda. I never earned sufficient to support a family, & being deported from 5 countries was not conducive to romance & child-rearing, nor was my participation in at least two civil wars, which I did "for reasons of health." But, I am a special case. I advised two White youths to leave the sold-out civil war in Rhodesia & return to the USA, where they should start their families. Instead, both died in ambushes. Too bad! No family, no future. In my own case, no family = no hostages to ZOG. But parenthood is real heroism. You might consider home schooling to protect your kids from toxic indoctrination & associates, in addition to toxic teachers, some of whom I had in elementary school. This is long-term, quiet heroism, in which the parents & children must 'run silent, run deep' on behalf of survival. It reminds me of Hungarian families under their ZOG, in which children were encouraged to denounce any 'politically-incorrect' words or actions on the part of their parents. When the jew-commie dictator of Hungary declared that wives would have to work, in order to advance Communism, the Hungarian Revolt of 1956 was sparked. That jew-screw was designed to destroy the family, & Hungarians were smart enough to know it. Dumb U.S. citizens think it's a 'privilege' to have mothers who work!

I haven't heard anything about Rudy Stanko since I read his revealing book, "The Score." Ego seems to be the big factor in the break up of pro-White groups. I understand that is typical in all formerly White countries. I have had my experience in founding & joining groups which have been sabotaged by members &/or leaders. This is another obstacle toward the creation of pro-White White communities, but communities we must have, sooner or later. First comes The Idea, then The Information about the Idea; then the Organization on behalf of The Idea; then the Action for the Realization of The Idea. If the Idea is valid, form will follow function.

5) Some writers have likened The Idea to a song, & the proponent of The Idea (the leader) as the singer thereof. Many follow leaders or singers because of their charisma, regardless of their Idea or song. I guess a good singer can make a bad song sound good, just as a bad singer or leader can make a good song sound bad. That is why most sheeple appear to follow the singer, rather than the song, in politics (people-power). Observers have likened politics to show-biz, especially when second-rate actors become president, based mainly on their previous movie roles! Reagan proved that. He could read his cue cards with apparent sincerity, while Bush II can't even read his cue cards properly, thereby showing himself as an embarrassment, as well as a liability.

The advice you have to offer, which is based on your hard-earned experience, is valid & informative to me, also. As you say, the best thing is to stay out of the gulag, by all means! I see what you mean about "What We Can Do." Unfortunately, our most intimate family members can be our worst enemies. As we learned in the army, an enemy up close can do more damage than an enemy at a distance, & it must hurt very much to have a bad parent, who does not care for her child, & who actively seeks to hurt him. You are indeed lucky to have at least one good friend. Most people call lots of people "friends," but this is incorrect. Co-consumers are not friends, unless you find out that you can rely upon them when things get difficult. One is lucky to have even one whom he can really call a friend!

Yes, Revilo P. Oliver was my friend. David Duke wrote "Jewish Supremacism," however.

I never had any trouble making ZOG dislike me. Why, it was no trouble at all, even when it was not my intention. Maybe ZOG is 'prejudiced' because I'm White & also pro-White. One fellow called me a "rogue scholar." I admit that I am a "word-criminal," who can make bad jokes in various languages. For example, if I say, "I am not a spy" in any language, no one believes me. Some have laughed & said, "Do you expect us to believe you?" That's what the East German authorities said as they escorted me to the train at Bahnhof Friedrichstrasse in East Berlin, in 1969. I tend to think that ZOG's reaction was extremely disproportionate to any offense I may have caused it.

You really should make a full account of your gulag experiences, both to educate the public whose tax dollars support ZOG's gulags, & to deter reckless people from becoming residents therein. Not only is such a debriefing a good form of therapy, in which Thoreau said that "the unexamined life is not worth living," but you will be turning stumbling blocks into steppingstones or making lemonade out of lemons, if you prefer. You are wise to wait until you are out!

To view a military career as a meal ticket or scholarship is a fallacy which often proves to be fatal, or nearly so, in which one is alive, but badly damaged, mentally & physically. My service was, just by luck, in peacetime, between the Korean War & the Vietnam War. That's how I missed seeing action in the U.S. Army. I saw most of my action as a civilian in Colombia & Rhodesia, as The Law of the Contrary would dictate. My normal jobs, such as teaching & writing tend to attract bombs: 2 in Colombia, plus one landmine, which missed me, & 3 bombs in Toronto, Canada, where I worked. Fortunately, they arrived when I was out. Two went off, but the Bomb Squad disposed of the third. Then there were the Toronto Thought-Crime Riots in which the Jews participated. Our side won the fights as well as the trials, eventually. Then there were snipers, bad ones, in Colombia & Rhodesia, I'm glad to say, because they missed! Yes, military ability is necessary, but it must be subordinate to mental ability. Knowing when NOT to fire is at least as important as knowing when to fire, for example. All combat occurs within a context, such as night or day, city or country, forest or desert, &c. A good soldier fits into his context. A bad one stands out. Knowing your terrain is essential, day & night, even with modern technology, such as night vision goggles & infrared devices.

"The Bonfire of the Idiots" refers to my Peruvian experience as a freelance journalist for OIGA, their equivalent of TIME (Slime) or Jewweek. In Peru I discovered way more collaboration between the USA & the USSR than they cared to have known, so in 1969, the USA stole my doctoral dissertation at gunpoint in L.A. International Airport. The FBI gave me a choice: I could remain in the USA & face airplane hijacking charges OR I could accept my U.S. passport & depart for any place other than the USA. That's what I did, seeing that my academic career was gone, so I was escorted to the Mexican border crossing at Mexicali/Calexico. In Mexico City, I learned that I was banned from entering all Soviet Bloc countries, including Cuba. When I returned to Peru, I was told to leave Latin America "for reasons of health." I did so, taking a plane to Stockholm, Sweden, where I learned that Mr. Ericsson of the Swedish Embassy in Peru had lied to me about being able to work in Sweden.

6) Since I couldn't stay in Sweden, I ordered my train ticket to Berlin in Swedish & took the train ferry across the Baltic to Rostock, East Germany, where I wanted to look up Dr. Joswig, whom I'd met in California when he spoke at my university. I therefore spoke German upon my arrival in Rostock. Not only was I not allowed to meet Dr. Joswig, the head of their Economic Institute, but I was kicked out of East Germany by Markus Wolf, the head of their secret police or STASI, who now works with Chertoff in Homeland Security. I thus travelled to London where I met a Rhodesian, who said there were jobs there. Since Rhodesia was officially under sanctions, there was no U.S. Embassy, so I gambled on the last of my money & bought a one-way ticket from London to Salisbury, Rhodesia, now Harare, Zimbabwe. So I had been kicked out of 4 countries in 1969. In 1976 I was kicked out of Rhodesia for pro-White activities. I arrived in Canada via London, after over 7 years in Rhodesia. No, I never got a career related to my education in terms of money, but my work has always related to my academic background, so my education is for me to enjoy, although I like to share it with those who are interested. Under ZOG, it's hard for any pro-White White to find work based on his skills & education. As for me, I was privileged to escape the Jew Ass Oy Veh to travel in time & space. When I mention that I fought in the last colonial war in Africa, people think I am much older, although it ended with White handover to a Black Marxist regime in 1980, not 1890! I was also a British colonial civil servant, albeit in a rebel colony. Anything for the quiet life, as the Brits say, usually after a bomb has gone off.

I'm sure Wayne MacLeod would be happy to correspond with you. Yes, finding "The White Man's Religion" is quite a job. Like you, I cut the proverbial Gordian Knot by insisting that Our Race be put first, & let the religions fall where they may. As in Weimar Germany, there are also many different groups & leaders who are agreed in one thing, only: "It's my way or the highway!" Ego Uber Alles. A leader will arise by dint of events, the people's need for a leader, & the leader's own abilities. That's how it usually is in history, as I read it. Diversity in beliefs is a luxury sustained only by our relatively abundant standard of living. With scarcity comes unity, such as hunger. As Nietzsche observed: "Man has his stomach to remind him that he is not a god."

I'm not sure why Duke went to prison. As I gather, it was something to do with tax-evasion. Other blightwingers claim that he stole money from his alleged cause, for gambling & other entertainments, in addition to wasting the rest. About all the blighting produces is malicious gossip & mutual denunciation, so the ZOG may rest easy & enjoy the show. Duke is one thing only: a Dukist, which is whatever he wants it to mean, neither more nor less.

I will send this letter & enclosures to your friend, in the hope that it finds you well, free & in good spirits. It is a pleasure to send you a letter without censorship & delays!

As you say, fighting is more than mere physical combat, for it takes all forms: moral & intellectual. White culture is being destroyed & even its memory erased, while our Volk are seduced into race-mixing & other forms of genocide. How willingly we destroy ourselves. It is as if we are under an evil spell which permeates our existence, like a poison gas: a foul jewish fart which pervades our lives. Our job is to find the window which we can open, so as to dispel this miasma. The jew perverts & distorts everything he touches, so our first job is to recognize what belongs to him, & therefore does not belong to us. The Moslems say that the first jihad or holy war is the most difficult, for it is our own self-conquest. This inner reclamation is what we must do first, before we begin the 2nd jihad, to cleanse our environment. When I returned from Africa, I could see that Whites had no Feindbild or picture of the enemy, so I gave them the ZOG, which describes the jews & their stooges, who are often White & other Gentiles. Now we must obtain a Selbstbild or picture of ourselves as Whites, not as mongrel wannabe Whites. For this, DNA testing will be required. I am disgusted by non-Whites who claim to speak & act on behalf of Whites, for they give Whites a bad name. Ostensible Whites who want to have children should have their DNA tested, just as tests for syphilis used to be required. In this way, we can show our loyalty to Our Race. All the best & ORION! LEADERS ARE ALSO TEACHERS, SO WE MUST TEACH OTHERS. P.S.: Drugs destroy individuals, families & communities, on behalf of anti-White groups. Behind the drugs are the jews. See if you can watch the movie, "The Battle of Algiers" to see how the criminal element acts to reinforce alien domination. It's a good textbook for a national resistance movement. U.S. troops now watch it for their training in counterinsurgency. I think it first came out in 1969, maybe 1968. I was pretty busy in those years.
