

5 NOV 06. Hail Jason! Many thanks for your letter of 31 OCT 06. I'm glad that you are getting out of lockdown, maybe, now & then. It sure sounds boring when you can't work or study. It is great that your Mom will be able to visit. At least I hope so!

I'm glad, also, that others find my letters of interest. I hope they get useful information from them. I hope you will stay in touch when you get out.

We can learn a lot from our heroes & our martyrs, but we must also be aware of the results, if any, which they achieved. My relatives fought on both sides of The Civil War, for example. Everyone who fought in that war was a hero & a martyr to one degree or another. The results were that we killed our fellow Whites, in order to make jews & Blacks much stronger in our own country. Such a deal! We did an even 'better' job in World Wars I & II. Should we worship such men? Listen to the laughter of our racial enemies at what we did to ourselves, & start thinking for a change, White man! If we understand what those men did to Our Race, it would have been much better if they'd just stayed home & talked about it. Using one's muscles is good exercise, but using one's mind is important at all times, for that is all that distinguishes man from other animals. We must not allow our enemies to use our best traits against us. Always ask yourself: Is this good for White people? Just because we can do something does not always mean we should. Just as often, it is wise to do nothing. Thinking & talking are also good exercise, which allow us to make better decisions about what we should or should not do. We can also do things better, when we decide to act.

Before we got ourselves into Iraq I had an argument with a fellow who is said to be a Pentagonian zogling. He said that we could invade Afghanistan & Iraq quite easily with our high-tech weaponry. I agreed, but I said: "But when we occupy, we will begin to die, for in occupation one gets close to people who hate us. We will continue to die until we wise up & get out." The zogling paid me an odd, left-handed compliment. He called me Colonel Blimp, because I'd fought in the last colonial war in Africa, which ended in 1980. He thought that my military knowledge was ancient history & irrelevant to 'modern warfare.' Unfortunately, I was right, as I usually hate to be. Napoleon noted that "the moral is to the material as 3 to 1." A determined enemy can always find a way to take advantage of a situation, especially if he is willing to blow himself up in order to cause the other side some injuries & losses. Against this moral factor we are losing, as is obvious.

None of the targets of "The Turner Diaries" is revolutionary, that is, strategic, as in 9-11. In other words, all such targets serve the ZOG, not the enemies of the ZOG. No informants were necessary for such actions against such targets to gain public support for the ZOG. We must always ask, "Cui bono?" Who benefits from any action?

Sorry, I only have one copy of Hoffman's "They Were White & They Were Slaves." If ZOG permits, I'd like to send you a photocopy. Let me know if that's o.k. with your zoggies.

I knew George Burdi alias Eric Hawthorne for a few years when I was in Toronto. He talked much tougher than he was, so when ZOG 'talked' to him after they raided Resistance Records, he got the message & caved in, but not before he'd gotten a few White boys into trouble, when they heeded his advice. I have his picture as leader of a Black rock band. Again, we should learn from his example: one can talk brave, but will one be brave when the chips are down? Burdi always impressed me as extreme in his statements. Men who know combat are usually quiet-spoken. They don't say much. They just do it, & they don't say much after doing it. Heroism is no big deal for brave men, whom I have been privileged to know & work with. That's why Burdi made me wonder if he could take the heat in ZOG's kitchen. It turned out that he couldn't, but I do not despise him for that. He was willing to take the test, & he failed. Sure, he did something, so he is a martyr, but no hero. "Nice try, but no cigar," as the carney workers say. Our Race turned out to be unimportant to Georgie, despite all his posturing that it was. In the end, it was Georgie who was most important. I wonder what will become of him, for the ZOG has a handle on him from now on.

It's like telling someone that "fire burns, & it hurts," so if you want to pick up that hot iron, good luck. Call me in the morning.

Portugal is like America. It's a place, not a race, so a few Whites can even be found in that country, but probably not many, according to my Portuguese professor, who was dark, himself. The Shi-ite Moslem cleric, Muqtada Al Sadr, reminds me of him. Many people of Spain & Portugal also have Arab blood, as I've noticed when I lived in those countries. There are many Arabic words in Spanish, not only place names like Guadalajara & Alhambra, but albañil (stone mason, bricklayer) & algebra (that math we all love). Ha!

As a White Nationalist, I wish you all the best, as always. ORION!
