

Extract from Victor Yeates' Winged Victory

During World War I Yeates had been, in Henry Williamson's words, an "experienced and valiant pilot" with the Royal Flying Corps. His novel is based on those experiences, although to call it a novel fails even to hint at the qualities that led T. E. Lawrence to call it "one of the most distinguished histories of the War".

In Chapter VII one of the leading characters, a Royal Flying Corps pilot, is asked why America entered the war. This is his answer:

"Inevitable sooner or later. The immediate cause was the Russian collapse putting the Allies in danger of defeat. You see, this war is being financed for the Allies by an international gang that works London, Paris, and New York. It was getting hold of Berlin as well. It dominated St. Petersburg completely, pensioning the government. Roughly it ruled the roost in the whole of so-called western civilization and its dependencies, except the central European block against which we are fighting. It was getting a grip on these, and that is the fundamental cause of the war. For there's one thing financiers cannot or will not see. They have visions of a frontierless world in which their operations will proceed without hindrance and make all human activities dependent on them; but their world state is impossible because finance is sterile, and a state living by finance must always have neighbours from which to suck blood, or it is like a dog eating its own tail. And as the financiers widen their influence it is the ever-lessening group of nations to which they are fastening tentacles that bears the ever-increasing brunt. In a sense, then, this war is a Germanic revolt against the international Jew. In another sense it is a clash of financial despotism with industrial despotism. In another it is a conflict of incompatible imperialisms. In another, a struggle for land for national expansion. But the side on which America has been brought in is the side of international finance. Enormous sums have been invested in this war, and an Allied victory is essential to preserve them as capital. You must understand that all this money that is being lavished on war supplies is not wiped out as it is spent; not a bit of it; it's mounting up as national debt, huge blocks of debt which are held by members and nominees of the gang. When the Associated Powers have been defeated at the cost of a few million more lives, including ours, and peace has been dictated to them, the gang will own a further hold over the Allies in the form of millions of pounds of gilt-edge security. And you may be sure Germany will be held down in the mud and kicked. There'll be a famous orgy of money-snatching over our bones.

"To return to America, the danger of an Allied defeat, that is to say, of the collapse of all that gilt-edge security, had to be averted. Those awful Russians! They let down their masters as much as their masters let them down. So the American politicians were told to be ready for a change of popular feeling, and an intense war-fever inoculation was carried out by the press. It took rather less than three months, I believe, to make the popular demand for war irresistible. That is the reason for the entry of America into our wonderful war. You asked me."

29 DEC 06. Hail Chad! It was great to receive your letter of 26 DEC 06. Thanks for the compliments on my 'adventurous' life. I never did anything spectacular, like James Bond, or Conan the Barbarian, so I've had a pretty easy life, barring a bout of Mexican dysentery in 1959. Others with much better imaginations than mine make up more interesting biographical fiction about me than I could invent, even if I were to eat a pizza with magic mushrooms. The ADL even makes up 'quotes' from me on their website. We all have a tendency to think of ourselves as 'unique,' that others are not at all as we are. This illusion prevents us from learning from others' experiences. I can say that I have profited from other's hard learning experiences, because I believed that such things could also happen to me. Even Bush #2 is probably aware of Mexico's immigration laws, but it won't hurt to remind him, for his memory may be a little bit unreliable, I gather, when he confused Iran with Iraq in a speech. So far, he has not confused Syria with Siberia, but that may happen, also.

Tactics & strategies make history, but we must always ask ourselves "Cui bono?" Who benefits? even when we are willing to pay the ultimate price for their realization. In his book, "By Way of Deception," former Mossadnik, Victor Ostrovsky, relates how the Mossad recruits Arabs to carry out jobs which do not benefit the Arabs, such as the usual suicide bombings ongoing in Iraq. Who benefits from Moslem versus Moslem conflict? Most certainly not the Moslems! One would think they could catch on, but it seems they can't. The U.S. presence in Iraq serves as a distraction for the Shia & Sunnis, who are more interested in killing one another. The Moslems may have something to gain by defeating other Moslems, but the U.S. & its stooges have nothing to gain from 'consuming' all the ordnance coming their way. Covert operatives rarely know for whom they really work, so we should not be overly-generous with our courage & commitment, for cui bono?

The Knights Templar were described in Peter Tompkins' "The Magic of Obelisks" as a proto-Freemasonic-Satanic group who learned usury & buggery during their stint in The Middle East. Their leader, Demolay, is a Freemasonic 'saint.' Freemasons are agents of Satan & jewry. Crowley, the notorious Satanist, was a 33° Freemason, as well as a member of Ordo Templar Orientis (Order of Templars of the Orient). I do not know of their alleged connection with "The Holy Grail." Sorry! Albert Pike, high mucky-muck Freemason & founder of the KKK, declared that "Freemasonic doctrine must be preserved in its Luciferian purity!" The Rothschild banksters are the real masters of the Freemasons, who ardently desire to be jew-slaves, like their mythical founder, "Hiram Abiff," the alleged master mason of the equally mythical jew, "King Solomon."

As you observe, it is a big change when one is inside or outside the ZOG-gulag. Prisoners with whom I've worked on fire suppression, when I was in the U.S. Forest Service, impressed me as 'foreigners,' who spoke English, but seemed unfamiliar with life on the outside, & they said so. When one is totally immersed in the prison environment, & then suddenly immersed in civilian life, it must be similar to living in different worlds. We are creatures of habit, so we would tend to fall back into our previous ways on the outside, so we may wind up back on the inside, again. It takes a strong change from within to change our ways when we are exposed to such powerful environmental changes, especially in the midst of the same people. Environment is potent for reviving memory. If I am in a German-speaking environment, my German soon perks up. Here in Brownest Yakima, I have no trouble in keeping my Spanish rust-free. Such a deal! It's a Scotsman's dream: being able to speak Spanish, without paying for a trip to Mexico. Hoot mon! I understand why those with whom I've corresponded usually stop writing when they get out. Writing takes time, & people outside the gulags have more & better things to do, as I would hope, so I am not disappointed when their letters cease. Being retired, I can devote my life to correspondence, but I could not do so when I was working at part-time, minimum-wage jobs, which I expected to be doing until I dropped dead in my tracks, but thanks be to ZOG, I became old, broke & jobless at just the right time, so I've never had it so good. This is an example of The Law of the Contrary, which seems to apply in my case. It works for me, so I can't complain.

Keep up the good work, ZOG willing. DOWZ! ORION! & 88!
