Radical Conservative Review

New 'Scramble

for Africa'

After World War II with the 'victors' in debt to international finance (Britain repaid her war debt to the USA in late 2006) the European empires were in no position to resist the combined assault of the USA and the USSR.

The geopolitical entity of Southern Africa, including Portuguese Mozambique and Angola were the last states to hold out against the US-Soviet grab for Africa. With the Afrikaners having relented to a corrupt alliance of the ANC and the Communist Party, the way was paved for "privatisation" and a globalised economy.

Although the USSR imploded beneath a mountain of international debt, the Chinese have stepped into the Soviet vacuum. Now Western based firms are coming increasingly into competition with China for the dividing up of Africa's still largely untapped mineral wealth.

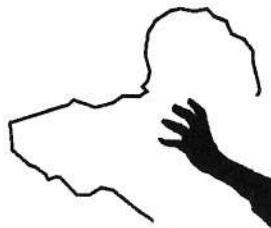

The largest global mining companies have appealed to the UNO and to the World Bank for assistance in the competition they are facing from China. In January the world's top mining companies met in secret enclave at the World Economic Forum in Davos. Included were Rio Tinto, Anglo American, De Beers, Severstal, and Newmont Mining. (Dominion Post, Jan. 31, 07).

The Chinese are able to offer African states package deals on development projects such as roads, railways, and dams. In some cases the projects are constructed gratis.

In a cynical move to slow down the Chinese, the mining plutocrats are asking the UNO to mandate that countries must sign deals with clauses on environmental and safety standards. It is only through compulsion that mining companies have themselves adopted such standards in Western states. Another aim is for companies to partner with the World Bank's International Finance Corp., which invests in development projects, to offset the Chinese developments. This will mean that Western tax-payers will be subsidising mining companies in their efforts to undermine the Chinese. The idea will be sold to Westerners as 'humanitarian aid'.

However it is reported that some companies, in keeping with many corporate giants, will be seeking joint ventures rather than rivalry with the Chinese. This strategy has worked well in mineral rich Tibet, which has been turned into one vast 'special economic zone' for Western companies to exploit in partnership with China.

It is notable that it was Rio Tinto when under the directorship of 'Tiny' Rowland, and the Openheimers' Anglo American and De Beers that played a primary role in undermining colonial rule in Africa. In order that sound governments could be replaced by easily manipulated 'majority' (sic) governments. Now that the mining monopolists face some rivalry, the Western tax-payer is supposed to prop them up.

11 June 07. Hail Tom! Many thanks indeed for your letter which I received several days ago. I've just managed to dig out from my mountain of correspondence, so I can now attend to your many-faceted message. I congratulate you on your voting protest. That is known as "propaganda of the deed," which is more productive than many posters & fliers. You performed brilliantly as a one-man demonstration!

Thanks, also, for your idea for a White Nationalist logo. The Celtic Cross is often used, since it is a Sunwheel equivalent of the Aryan Swastika, which Alexander the Great brought into Asia, although it was previously the sign used by the Aryan conquerors of India, & is still used on the bows of Indian merchant ships, to the acute discomfort of jews & jew-lovers. American Indians also used it as a good luck symbol, which was subsequently used as such by Whites. Swastikas may be round or square, but they all have an interior cross, which I understand to represent the 4 seasons within the Sunwheel. Many pre-Christian symbols & practices were adopted to popularize Christianity wherever its missionaries set up shop.

As I see things, all our endeavors are of 5 steps, when it comes to politics (people-power): The Idea; The Information about the Idea; The Organization stemming from the Idea; the Action on behalf of the Idea, & the Realization of the Idea. The Idea is like a song, & it is most effectively transmitted by a good singer, a leader with charisma. The true leader serves his cause, thereby serving his people. The false leader really serves himself, so he is willing to betray his touted cause & his people.

The blighting, as it proves itself to be by its dysfunctional behavior, tends to blame others for its lack of success: "If only so & so were out of the way, then we'd have a glorious day." The truth is that no one person nor group of persons forms a roadblock on our path to success, so we should carry on the best way we know how, as you strive to do.

Often, our own propaganda is less effective in convincing people about our Idea than is enemy action. A Black fist in a White face is Black Power in action, which leads the White victim to think of White Power as the defense. Perhaps the presence of non-Whites & non-Irish in Ireland will awaken Irish people to the danger of genocide.

The USA has always been an empire, never a nation. Non-Whites behave in terms of their group interests, & so must Whites. I published fliers on behalf of Jesse Jackson for President. He is Black. I argued that he is pro-Black, so tax dollars will stay in the USA to help Black people, not Israel. The so-called White House has been befouled by all manner of scum. In the Roosevelt era, some suggested it become The Red House. A Black president who is pro-USA would be a refreshing change from our present Zionist (jew-supremacist) globalist traitor scum. The U.S. empire was never pro-White, but the opposite. Whites injure themselves when they believe that the USA represents White interests. It never did in its entire history. The first slaves on this continent were White, many of them Irish. The Black slaves came later, & they were better treated, since they were more expensive than White slaves. The slave records are intact, so White slavery is very much a fact, despite jewsmedia propaganda designed to cover up the truth.

I think you have seen what ails Ireland: the anti-Irish Irish, who apparently put money ahead of their people. In the USA, we are used to seeing anti-White Whites who profit in the short run from betraying their people, but, as I say, we are denizens of a multi-racial empire. I'd hope we'd see things differently if we were Irish, living in our very own land of Ireland. I also hope that the Irish see how badly they are threatened by genocide in the land they are so willing to give away. What have Irish to be ashamed of? If they are not ashamed of being Irish, why do they wish to destroy the country that is named after them? As you say, they never enslaved anyone; never invaded others' lands, nor did they impose imperial rule over aliens. So what gives aliens the right to invade Ireland? If I were Irish, I'd strive to mention such simple facts. Why do some assume that Irish people 'owe' non-Irish peoples their land & their livelihoods, when these invaders come from bigger & richer lands than Ireland? If the Irish could swap Ireland for Nigeria, the Irish would be rich indeed, but what we see is Nigerians invading little Ireland as colored imperialists. If White imperialism had little to be recommended, then why is non-White imperialism deemed any better? We were told that all we needed to do was leave them their countries. That being done, why must we leave them our countries as well?

The Chinese symbol for "crisis" includes the symbol for "danger" & the symbol for "opportunity." Perhaps we shall need an obvious, immediate crisis to drive home the importance of the Idea: White Nationalism, the Idea whose time has come. All the best & ORION!
