

12 June 07. Dear Wayne: Thanks for your letter of 6-6-07 & the issue of Separate Living. Your picture next to the big steam clock is impressive. The designer of the clock was successful with that large model, but did he ever design a smaller, desktop model? I crafted a steam-powered table fan, but my parents complained of the noise, vibration, smoke & water vapor. On a smooth tabletop, it tended to move about. The fact that it was cordless was not a big selling point, according to my parents. Steam-driven clocks & fans: Ideas whose time is in the foggy, smokey past or future?

Many thanks, also, for your item on the jews' leadership of pervertocratic organizations. I believe they have established a monopoly on degeneracy.

I'm sorry to read of blightwing bickering over 'turf'. I looked up the word, Logos, which my dictionary defines as "the rational principle in the universe." Rational stems from reason, & reason occurs in a mind, as those words are used, to my knowledge, so Logos implies a god, at least a god of reason. Of course, there may be a god of unreason & chaos.

I don't think that Logos could be construed as "atheist," your Vogel (Bird) to the contrary. He seems to be a Cosmotheist Obstructionist, a dog in the manger type of blighter. The concept of deity or god is contained in the theism part of Cosmotheism, so what's his problem?

Cosmos = universe, so why not work on a less clunky, cumbersome name for your religion? Universal Church Triumphant comes immediately to mind, although that name may be copyrighted already. Catholic is another synonym for universe/universal. Pantheism would put Logos into all things, including rocks, which are manifestations of Logos. Since Logos includes reason/mind & universe/cosmos, why not adopt Logotheism? That would be synonymous with The Church of the Universal Mind, if you prefer something more comprehensible to Goyim.

In my experience, causes which promise work mostly attract Whites, as opposed to causes whose very admission has the name, White. Hence, Church of the Creator has great potential, were it not for the failings of its members & leaders, who normally wind up dead or in prison. That tends to be a negative image for would be Mars colonists.

Back in my Nazi UFO publication days, I discussed a Space Cadet Program for White youth. This program would prepare its members for a life of racial purity & Aryan Aspiration, rather than our present ethos of porcine egotism under ZOG. It would adopt a Mormon communitarian system. Even a Mormon mythology would work, if only the Mormons did not convert non-Whites as "Whites." They have the Organization & the Means, but they have a false & pernicious Idea as the basis of their Actions. What they prove is that such communities can work.

As you say, the 'religious' approach toward White Power has a potential, rather than a political approach which people associate with parties & elections within the kosher context of ZOG-rule. I don't know how many folks would believe that our ZOG would allow itself to be VOTED out of power, since it has controlled the political process in the USA & Canada from Day One. That is why I tried to promote The White Power Movement, much to the abject horror of the blightwing. That's when I was impressed by the large number of non-Whites the name attracted, as compared to the small number of Ostensible Whites. Members of so-called Nazi groups proved no less un-Aryan. That is why I objected to the idea of fund-raising by selling membership cards! I proposed an initiation program for prospective members which required them to perform certain duties, including personal interviews, before membership would be granted. A 2-tier organization was also suggested, like Rotarians/Freemasons; Sinn Fein/IRA; Hibernians/Molly Maguires, &c. One tier was public, the other political & officially deniable. It's all been done before by others in other places, so my suggestion is to choose what works for Whites today, under ZOG.

I also see potential in an environmentally Green approach: The Anti-Genocide Movement, which could use the same propaganda as those who condemn the introduction of alien stocks of plants & animals. We are, after all, animals, so we should have the same 'rights'.

We have the Means, but we must obtain the Will to use the means on behalf of Our Folk. Perhaps the Will will arise if we finally see the NEED to use it, through our dim & distracted vision of the world around us. Perhaps not.

DOWZ & ORION!
