

8 SEP 07

Dear Phil: Many thanks, indeed, for your letter of 2 SEP 07 & all the trenchant enclosures. I haven't read "Criminal Politics" in years, but what I see is more doomsday scenarios from Satanyahwehjesus, interpreted from some version of the jewbook. No doubt, Christinsanity is a doomsday deathcult. If people want death & destruction sufficient to bring on "the end of the world" & Jesus' Third Coming (he allegedly returned to his disciples after his crucifixion), perhaps just before he skipped out to France with his girlfriend, they are likely to be disappointed. THEIR lives are subject to ongoing events, but recognizably human life is likely to survive our current version of Rome in the future. The Jesus-vampires & cannibals were 100% wrong in 1000 A.D., as they were in 2000 A.D., but they LUST for death, similar to George Bush II.

Our scenario is much more a replay of the End of the Roman Empire than it is a page in the jewbook of death & destruction. Jesus-eaters prefer to omit the volcanic destruction of two bustling Roman cities in 79 A.D.: Pompeii & Herculaneum. For their inhabitants, the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius was the end of THEIR world, indeed, just as a major eruption of Mt. St. Helens &/or Mt. Rainier could be the end of yours truly. These cities went the way of fabled Sodom & Gomorrah, but as they do not figure in jew-mythology, they are of no account, at least not from judeocentric 'history.'

Alleged 'weather-control' affects the entire planet. So who benefits if the weather & climate are man-caused & man-directed? These changes are known to have occurred before man was on the planet. Certainly, man is exacerbating these changes, in terms of what man needs to live & what he does to procreate his increasing numbers. Hence, these changes may not be good for man. As Elmer Pendell wrote in "Sex versus Civilization," "When Nature is nasty, man improves. When she is nice, man degenerates."

Patterson et al. are very selective in their jewbook-readings, since they worship GOLD, as if it were "The Golden Calf" of jew-legend. If we consider serious crises, such as food & water shortages, coupled to a collapse of trade & transportation, with resultant civil unrest, crime waves & violent disorders, we can imagine what any amount of gold would do FOR us, rather than TO us. Our greatest danger would be when gold still had value as a commodity useful in trade. Would a store stay open in anticipation that customers would come in with gold instead of zogbucks, or would they do the right thing: grab what they could & flee the oncoming looters? I'd think they'd do the latter.

No, kids are NOT growing up way too fast. In colonial times, women had children as soon as their bodies permitted them to do so. A boy in his teens was considered a man, for he could father children, as well as use an ax & a musket. Our judeo-capitalist society went to the opposite extreme by seeking to retard procreation, 'ideally' until age 40 or 50. In the 1950s I recall the jewsmedia packaging sex in tempting ways for the Goy sheeple. Before The Pill, children were considered accidents best avoided. Girls could ruin their reputations by getting pregnant out of wedlock, & boys who fathered them were considered "too young" to support a family, BECAUSE wages were so low. With The Pill, such low wages discourage adults from having children. Hey, it worked for me! Because wages are low, women 'have' to work, so their child-bearing is restricted, also. One reason for low wages is high taxes, which are 'needed' to subsidize non-White birthrates, such as Mexican invaders & welfare-niggers, plus the eternal Injuns, who receive the White Man's tribute AND welfare handouts.

In the 1930s, U.S. males were paid more than women because they were assumed to be the breadwinners of a family, which the women raised at home. In World War II, women were doing men's work. Whenever I see a female busdriver, I'm reminded of WW II. In the 1930s Depression, my mom had to quit her precious teaching job when she got married! This was standard practice in the Jewnited States. In the 1950s, men were in the work-force, being paid more than women at the same jobs. Suburban debt-slavery became the norm in pre-Pill Amerizogland. All the 'Oops' babies were hostages & co-consumers, as businessmen told me. Even then, I could realize that our rulers deemed us to be wage-slave/debt-slave consumers, similar to cattle, in which women were trained to behave like bunnies: another item for consumption. Because they behaved as such, I was not attracted to the American women I knew, & especially not to their way of life. For me, The Law of the Contrary has always applied. My 'hard times' were not that hard, in terms of supporting myself, according to my standards of army field-style living or 'indoor-camping.' Now, I'm old, broke & White, with my last job gone to India, & I've never had it so good; no exaggeration! Instead of living FOR the ZOG, I now live OFF the ZOG, on a level which is luxury for me. I know that I'm now in First Class on the USS TITANIC, so I enjoy it while I can. It sure beats the bilges.

I agree that ZOG will use any pretext to squeeze Whites for more taxes & lower our standard of living. I, too, am suspicious of ZOG's global-warming publicity. My FAEM colleague, Robert Frens, was an automotive engineer. You may find his report on www.FAEM.com in regard to the amount of CO₂ produced by Chinese bodies versus automobiles. Is ZOG pushing birthcontrol for non-White CO₂ producers? Not that I know. Only Whites are targetted for extinction by ZOG, for Whites consume 'too much', & their consumption of energy adds to global-warming, hence, fewer Whites = less global-warming. But weren't we nice Goyim? The jewsmedia told us to multiply & consume. Then our jew-rulers told us to reduce our reproduction, so we did. Now they tell us that we are too few to pay for Social Security; too few to harvest our own crops, &c., so now we need an infinite supply of non-Whites to do all the jobs "we won't do." Such a trusting, back-busting bunch of Goy sheeple we are! Like Saddam of Iraq, we did everything our jew masters wanted us to do, but how do they show their gratitude? Similar to the way in which we betrayed Saddam. There are important lessons for us to learn, if we could just get our noses out of the infernal jewbook!

Other writers have noted that ZOG's petro-banksters perverted our society by making it artificially dependent on the automobile, so that our bedrooms would be many hours away from our workplaces. I noted this racket early on, by making a study of my 24-hour day, in which I spent at least 2 hours commuting. I figured: 2 hours commuting; 8 hours at work; 8 hours for sleep, & 6 hours for the rest of my life. But those 6 hours were scattered throughout the day, & they included washing, ironing, purchasing, cooking, bathing, shaving & other preparations for work. My best time & energies were largely expended at work, so I'd find myself falling asleep as I tried to read a book after work. Week ends had the possibility of walking around San Francisco & other Bay Area cities, so that was my major recreation, but my brief taste of the judeo-american ratrace enhanced my determination to 'leave the straight life behind,' on behalf of mere survival. Obviously, I have a delicate constitution which cannot abide permanent stress. Civil war conditions in Colombia were much more fulfilling & relaxing for me. The work was easier, the pay the same, but the living conditions were much better than they were for me in the Jewnited States. In Colombia I never fell asleep reading a book. Had I been given the choice: Remain in the judeo-american ratrace or be killed by a bomb in Colombia, I'd have chosen the bomb, for life's value is in quality, not quantity, jewbooks to the contrary. If someone had wished me to 'live for 120 years' under Judeo-American conditions, I prefer suicide. Now that I have my background of foreign experience, I have achieved a seamless transition from life in mestizo South America to life in mestizo North America. I speak Spanish frequently in Yakimexico, as I did when I lived in Durango, Guadalajara & Mexico City, so I suffer no 'culture-shock.' After Toronto, Yakima was like returning to Nogales. If I live to see The North American Union, I'll feel as if I were back in the banana republics again. Bang, bang, olé!

Just heard on jewsradio about a book entitled "The World Without Us" by Alan Wiseman. He describes the decay of human artifacts in the absence of all humanity, for various reasons. One of them could be a homo 'sapiens'-specific virus; an asteroid collision of the sort alleged to kill off the dinosaurs, &c. It reminds me of an old song: "Once was the time of man." We all 'know' that what comes from a jew 'must be true.' Warming & cooling have their cycles & so do writers' imaginations of doom. My most recent jewsmedia image of doom was in the form of nuclear 'boom'. "The Bomb" got better press than "The Grim Reaper," since a "nuclear exchange" could produce mega-deaths in an instant. Hebrewood gave us "On the Beach," &c. The imagery of nuclear annihilation affected behavior. A California couple figured that the Southern Hemisphere would be safe from fallout, so they moved to Chile. As I recall, they died suddenly in an earthquake. A group of men dropped out of their social obligations in a CA hotel, where I briefly resided. They lived as if every day were to be their last, so they sat around a table & drank, day & night. They were still alive & drunk when I left. According to medical studies, most Americans are dying from over-eating & under-exercising themselves to death, so our lifestyles may be much more deadly than our environment. I knew that in 1961 when I jumped off The Talmudic Treadmill to Oblivion. Sheeple said that my escape from stress was risking death, but it led to a long & interesting life. How contrary life can be! Some correspondents imagine that a bloke who could break his kosher chains must be a Superman. In fact, it was easy, for I had lived & planned for such an escape, & I stuck to my plan. My freedom was on par with one who plans to go fishing, & does not allow distractions to derail him. It is a matter of priorities, & my decisions were easy, since the rewards greatly out-weighed any sacrifices I made to achieve them. Few have enjoyed such an easy & entertaining life as I have. That is why I proclaim: "What, me worry?" ORION! ERID
