

We should connect past events with current events. Beliefs in patriarchy, matriarchy and the family are some example. In The German Ideology of 1844, Karl Marx asserted that the patriarchal family was the first form of slavery since the wife and children were the slaves of the husband. This theme was reflected in Frederick Engel's 1884 book The Origin of the Family, Private Property and the State. The same theme was reflected in Betty Friedan's 1963 book The Feminine Mystique, which has been commonly recognized as the origin of the modern feminist revolution in America. Friedan had been a communist militant in her youth and had been trained by Frankfurt School operatives.

This is how Hillary Clinton can aspire to become President of the United States, as a form of matriarchy, i.e., an inversion of the patriarchal order.

The election of a black president such as Barack Obama would be another inversion as a result of the Marxian social revolution originated long ago. In the 1860s, Karl Marx wrote letters to Frederick Engels on the subject of Negro slavery. Marx contended that the freeing of the American slaves would be favourable to the cause of the European proletarians. William Z. Foster as secretary of the American Communist Party in 1933, wrote a book, entitled Towards Soviet America which championed the desegregation of the South. Leon Trotsky, former number two man as head of the Bolshevik government in Russia, advocated the use of Negroes as the vanguard of the revolution in America. As a further example, Martin Luther King, Jr., was surrounded by known Communists like Stanley Levison and Hunter Pitts O'Dell.

It is completely logical that Marxist bred Communists should promote the U.S. civil rights revolution for it is the same process the red termites used in Europe to promote the superiority of the proletariat there. It has always been the essence of the Marxian revolution to bring about an inversion of the social order. This makes it a social revolution. As an outgrowth of this process, Barack Obama became a U.S. Senator from Illinois and is now a presidential aspirant as the first black president. Thus, we have the female Hillary Clinton as a presidential aspirant due to the feminist revolution and Barack Obama as a presidential aspirant due to the civil rights revolution.

Obama, born of a Kenyan father and White American mother, moved to Indonesia and was adopted by a Moslem. Hence, his middle name Hussein. The black church he attends in Chicago is militantly anti-White. In many ways, he is more Third World than American.

Hillary Clinton, in her youth, was tied to the militantly anti-White Black Panthers. She continues to draw support from radical Negro preacher Al Sharpton who hob nobs with White hating rap artists.

An example of the widespread acceptance of these two candidates for president in the media and elsewhere is reflected in an article by Claude Lewis in the January 26, 2007 edition of the Corpus Christie Caller - Times entitled "2008 could be Breakthrough Year for U.S. Politics." It predicts that America might warm to the idea of electing a black or a woman to the highest post in the land. Some suggest that a Clinton-Obama ticket might be unstoppable.

The touted candidacies of Hillary Rodham Clinton and Barack Hussain Obama show that the revolution and inversion are almost complete.

If you want to stop it, you must get involved and act!

Hail Daniel! Many thanks for the #10 issue of "Separate Living!" I shall send it onto our African friends. They greatly appreciate your mention of IMPACT.

Congratulations on your essay on "Armed Resistance." I appreciate your mature evaluation of this 'hot-button' subject, which certainly merits clear & sober thought. As you know, I'm one of the few White Nationalists who has actual experience in civil wars & insurgencies, plus historical & theoretical research background in International Relations. In regard to experience, I have lived in civil war-torn Colombia, Civil war-damaged Rhodesia, under U.N. blockade & pre-insurgency Peru. I have followed the career of Che Guevara, & his promoter, Regis Debray, whose "head for the hills" insurgency tactics were based on Mao Tse Tung's military thoughts, & as such, were inappropriate to the Latin American demography which had largely flocked to urban areas. Mao went to the people, the vast majority of whom were in the countryside, whereas Che Guevara's people were not in the jungles, but in the cities. Hence, Guevara became isolate & got captured.

Alexander Kerensky alias Kurbis, was the jew who ruled Russia between the Tsar & the Bolshevik jew, "Lenin" alias Ulyanov. Kurbis lectured at the college I attended in 1956. He explained his ouster as head of Russia that he could find no loyal troops to defend his Provisional Government. The Khazar Communists alias Bolsheviks made him a prisoner in his own capital, Petrograd alias Leningrad alias St. Petersburg. All his loyal troops were at the front, fighting the Germans, in 1917, when the Reds succeeded at their takeover of Russia, which they failed to do in 1905. Like Gorbachev, "Kerensky" retired in California, as his reward for service to the jew-banksters, who decided to support their fellow jew-Bolsheviks, who now enjoyed their "objective conditions for revolution."

It is often argued that "the future resembles the past," but nobody agrees on the details, since it would be absurd to believe that a revolution would be fought with the weapons of 1917. Let's consider parallels with Russia of 1917 & the USA of today: Russia was bogged down & exhausted by World War I. The long war had brought the urban population to starvation, since the war had pulled peasants from the land, thus reducing food production. Russia's armies were starving at the front. They had no artillery shells, & one writer alleged that each soldier was limited to 3 bullets per day, regardless of what the Germans did! According to a recent U.S. military report broadcast on NPR jewsradio, U.S. forces are stretched to the breaking point by commitments in Iraq & Afghanistan. Equipment is in short supply, & is wearing out. More troops are needed. ZOG may renew the draft. When Kerensky/Kurbis called up the last of the Guards Unit in Petrograd, they mutinied & joined the Reds. Empires usually have large armies, but national differences limit their deployment. Austrian Serbs could not be used to fight Serbian Serbs, for example. The USA has already had problems in its attempt to use Moslem troops against Moslems. Blacks are not volunteering for Iraq et al., & Moslem sympathies are growing amongst Black Americans. One report claimed that Islam is the fastest-growing religion in North America. If Bush's war becomes less popular because of its increasing demands on the U.S. sheeple, his regime could be overthrown by a coup d'etat similar to that which overthrew Kerensky/Kurbis. The jew-bankster ZOG would likely remain in place, however, just as it did in Russia under the Tsar, the Provisional Government & the Bolsheviks. The jew-banksters apparently want The North American Union, so the overthrow of the Bush regime may lead to the NAU, just as the overthrow of the Kerensky/Kurbis regime led to the USSR. The Mexicans & Canadians allegedly support such a North American Union, in obedience to their jew-banksters, so the U.S. sheeple will most likely go along with it. After all, the Bolsheviks promised the Russians "bread, land & peace," instead of the continuation of the war, which was what the Russians really wanted, after 4 years of losses & privation in a no-win war. No wonder The Provisional Government failed to gain popular support!

What is the role, if any, of that "damned scrap of paper," which Bush called The U.S. Constitution? Well, it can be abolished by treaty, in terms of Article VI, paragraph 2, depending on who occupies Congress at the time. The ZOG announced years ago that there is a "shadow government" which can take over in an "emergency" requiring the "replacement" of the current ZOG frontmen. The members of this shadow government are "secret," so anybody could be a member, without his or her knowledge. Now, that would really be a secret!

To make things 'more interesting,' China wants to rake in its winnings from the U.S. trade deficit, by turning its worthless ZOG-bucks alias jew-I.C.U.s into real wealth, such as fertile land & natural resources, along with North American industry & infrastructure. The North American Union is also a preparation for a Chinese takeover of this continent, where Whites & non-Chinese are expendable, just as are the Blacks of Africa. Stay tuned!
