

14 NOV 08

Dear Phil: Thanks for your note & enclosures of 10 NOV 08. It appears that the hispano-mestizo occupation is proceeding on schedule in The Homeland of Chertoff, on both coasts & in the center. Goyim are too dumb, too corrupt &/or too cowardly to call this invasion what it is, & to respond accordingly, since we have already been defeated by our jew rulers & their Zionist stooges since before 1776. "In ZOG we trust."

As I finished photocopying "Return to Cologne," a phrase came into my mind: "Our Race we slew for the inner jew." How true!

Thanks for the comparative list on cultural values, which I return herewith for future reference.

I question the cultural value of vegetarianism. Man is as much a meat-eater as he is a male or female. That's why we have canine teeth & short digestive tracts, as well as bifocal vision, typical to predators. A rabbit can smell that we are meat-eaters, whether we are vegetarians or not, so the rabbit runs from us. We might just change our minds. The rabbits survive because they stereotype us: Meat-eater odor = Run for cover! That includes foxes & wolves, but birds of prey are more difficult to sense, since they strike silently, from above. My assessment is how much meat can we eat to maintain health, especially if it has chemical & biological contaminants? We need a certain amount of animal proteins to have sufficient vitamin B nutrition. Eskimoes obtain their sole stock of vitamin C from animal livers. No orange groves in the Arctic Circle!

Common law can only exist within one culture with common values. In Japan & Denmark, I understand that lawyers were few because people agreed on right & wrong. Theft was theft, & a captured thief would need no one to argue if theft was 'not theft' in a court of law. With cultural diversity comes different beliefs about right & wrong. Gypsies believe that stealing from non-Gypsies is 'kosher,' just as Judaism teaches its jews. A White mother will punish her child for stealing, but a Gypsy mother will punish her child, not for stealing, but for getting caught. So, too, with jews, who take what they can get away with. We share our living space, but not our values.

Mono-cultural communities police themselves, for crime is rare within them. "Bad" people don't stay long in such communities, needless to say. When people have few things in common, a common law becomes inappropriate. Hence, the people get Roman, statute or admiralty law, but even those laws are enforced selectively, as I witnessed in San Francisco, where there was one law in theory, but selective enforcement in practice, depending on the denizens of a district: In Chinatown, fireworks were permitted, although illegal. In Irishtown, public drunkenness was permitted, although illegal. In the "Hashbury District," pot was permitted, although illegal, &c. In colonial Africa, there were laws for the Whites & laws for the natives. Usually, the laws for the Whites were tougher than for the natives. Whites could not practice polygamy alias bigamy; rape was a serious crime. In Black society, polygamy was part of life & rape was equated with petty theft. Been there, witnessed that. When laws conflict with community values, law enforcers tend to look the other way. This principle applies to Brownest Yakima, where statutory rape, i.e. sexual intercourse with "minors" is a crime, which is enforced against Whites, but rarely against hispano-mestizos who deem "the age of consent" as being when a girl can become pregnant. In France, that age is 14. If the community sees no crime in the act, then it does not complain to the cops. Hispanics also have their common law, that is, cultural traditions & values. So much for the Freemasonic folly of touting "a government of laws, not of men." Our ZOG exists because none were man enough to enforce the existing laws, on behalf of society. One politician said that "We have no 'public interest,' just a sum total of ruthless private interests."

In Colombia, the government troops cared only about attacks on themselves. Normal crime was well on a back burner. If one suffered crime on the part of groups, individuals &/or the government, one had to look out for himself, or use his extended family connections, if any. This is like the Jewnited States, where justice is rarely found in the lawcourts.

What, in fact, is a "republic?" The only example I can think of is that of Rome, which was a republic of the rich, by & for the rich, whose Senate formed a consensus of the rich for the enactment of imperial policies to be imposed upon the majority. Republics are as natural as crime syndicates, like the Assassins, the Mafia & the Freemasons, but 'natural' is not necessarily good. A bullet is natural, so a bullet in the brain would be "death by natural causes." The bullet may be made of honest lead, which is toxic in small doses, as with many natural substances. Keep up the good work. DOWZ! ORION!
