

26 DEC 08

Hail Clinton! Good Yule & Happy New Year! Many thanks for your letter of 21 DEC 08. You explain how we are victimized by lies & scams aimed at our enslavement & our destruction. But you ask why we put up with such victimization. I have also wondered about it, & I can think of several reasons: (1) Stupidity, being unable to see beyond our immediate gratification; (2) Concern only for oneself, rather than for one's Folk or Nation; (3) Ignorance that personal profit is what life's all about, regardless of how many it hurts. (4) The Jewish belief that hurting & killing Gentiles is a "mitzvah" or "divine obligation." You may think of other reasons for the current mess we are in, so let me know if I've omitted one or more reasons you can see. Most sheeple DO NOT want to see what we do, but their ignorance will not be bliss, judging from all indications of our economic, demographic & political circumstances. Yes, how easy we make things for those who will destroy us, if we let them. And for that, we shall receive no thanks whatsoever. Such a deal!

I'm sorry your zoggies deem runes to be "code." Maybe you could teach them the runic alphabet. Zoggies have lots to learn, as proved by the fact that they are zoggies. I think it was Orwell who invented the satirical slogan, "Ignorance is strength," so a ZOG uniform proclaims that its wearer is 'proud to be ignorant.' I once wore a ZOG uniform, but I doffed it when I wised up, & began to inform myself. Victory comes from struggle & from understanding.

Yes, I've played chess, but I have other exercise for my brain, such as ingesting information & other's thoughts. As you probably know, chess is a representation of medieval warfare, with its pawns (peons), knights, bishops, castles & kings. It is notable that the queens are powerful pieces, whereas the kings are liabilities. As a beginner at chess, I learned the moves, then tactics, but to become a good chess-player, one must learn the strategy, by memorizing the moves of entire games. That was more time & effort than I wished to invest in a game, so I gave up chess for other interests more relevant to my life.

Chess has been played at least from India to Europe, as far as I know. For me, it teaches that one move follows another, & each move occurs within a context of other pieces. The master player can play several moves ahead, if not entire games, so he can dominate the board. The master's opponent is reduced to deciding on his best moves, with the knowledge that they are just not good enough. At that time, his polite decision is to resign in favor of the master. The Chinese military strategist, Sun Tzu, who wrote "The Art of War," if I recall the title correctly, said that the superior commander conducts war in such a manner that his enemy is defeated before the first shot is fired, so the battle is just a noisy fanfare for the superior commander's victory. Sun Tzu defines war as the displacement of one people by another, so we are always at war, whether declared or not, & we have been losing for centuries, since we are fighting for our enemy, & not for Our Folk & our future. Thus, our ignorance is not our strength, nor our bliss. Knowledge is indeed power, so I see my duty is to spread knowledge to those who would receive it, as I continue to gain knowledge for myself. I strive to increase my knowledge in some way, every day, even though some say that "there is nothing new under the sun." I see knowledge as major themes & minor variations, rather than as discrete or separate bits of information, as several trees among the many which comprise a forest, or several notes among the many which comprise a symphony. One of my professors of International Relations said that the problem is not the acquisition of information so much as its evaluation, so it occurs in an order of priorities. Our minds do this unconsciously, for we place normal, routine stimuli in a lower order of importance, than we do stimuli which are abnormal & perhaps threatening. A routine stimulus in my barrio or neighborhood, here in Brownest Yakima is the loud thuds emanating from mes-tizo boombox speakers, which rattle the windows & cause plaster dust to fall from the ceiling. My reaction to those normal sounds is quite different from my reaction to a loud, large caliber gunshot right outside my window, which caused me to hit the floor, in case the mes-tizo bandido wanted to take another shot, perhaps at me! This is why soldiers drill, so their appropriate reactions are second nature, rather than the result of slow & fatal consideration.

The job of prioritizing information is performed by intelligence analysts. Since I am a White man, I evaluate information in terms of who I am & therefore what is good for me & for my People. This is why FEDZOGUSA has no use for my services, other than as a possible bit of feedback as to what Whites may know about ZOG policies, & how they may perceive them. Our Zionist enemies are quite close, & many of them are us. Life is sure interesting.

All the best. ORION & DOWZ! as White Nationalists proclaim.

P.S.: The New World Order is Babel, the worldwide DISORDER
we are helping ZOG to build. If we win, we lose.
