

Observations on some observations by OSHO-san from E. Thomson

His credo of "be yourself" is wise to the extent that oneself does not clash with his community values, attitudes & behavior, in such a way that he brings punishment upon himself. The balance must be struck: To be yourself AND eat. As Nietzsche said: "Man has his stomach to remind him that he is not a god." As such a man, I see my duty as striving to inform others. Knowledge bears with it the obligation to pass it on for the benefit of others who will receive it. I am fortunate that I have not been paid to lie for a living, as are career journalists & teachers.

OSHO rightly inveighs against the evils of Christinsanity: Its lust for wars & poverty, for the perceived moral & material benefits of its preachers, priests & popes, at the expense of the masses (Goyim). Because "Christianity" includes the Old Testament, which was written by jews for jews in this world, & The New Testament was written for jews' slaves in "the world to come," we see the inculcation of a pernicious form of schizophrenia in its believers who think that the forgiveness of evil-doers buys them entry to a Pie in the Sky in the Sweet By & By. Since when are accomplices of evil "guilt-free," as Christians deem themselves to be? Evil toward one's community in This Life is evil, now & in some "After-life." I believe that we are in This Life for a reason, unless we are to believe in an unreasonable god. Hence, what we do in our lifetimes is important in the Universal Scheme of Things. To the extent that we have "Free Will," we have the ability to recognize evil-doers & to resist them, instead of serving them as jew-slaves, like zombies or subjects of Hebrew Hypnosis.

Because Christinsanity combines Old & New Testaments, it should be correctly known as "Judeo-Christianity." By omitting "Judeo," we conceal the dupers from the duped; the masters from the slaves, thereby providing only half of the Truth. When Truth is halved, it functions as a lie. Let's hear the Goy Cheer: "DUUH!"

OSHO was published, likely because he omitted the above fact, & because he incorporates the kosher version of Hitler, whom he equates with Mussolini, as 'war-monkeys of Jesus.' I question his statement that "Buddhists have not started a single war." Yet, Asia has long been a theater of war, with Asians versus Asians. Were none of them Buddhists? Perhaps they hung up their robes in exchange for weapons, thereby becoming 'heretics.'

Wars do occur when people's homelands are invaded, by other Christians & other Buddhists, just as they have occurred long before the advent of Christinsanity. OSHO rightly sees the oxymoron of "holy war" as a means of stopping men's thinking, as well as inflaming their natural aggressive instincts. Yes, we do have natural aggressive instincts.

In his natural state, man is a hunter-gatherer. His instincts helped him survive by preparing him for fight or flight. Sorry, OSHO, but that's how we are. Fight or flight is the best remedy for stress, but when we live in the community of other men (with whom I include women, as in pre-feminist times), in a semi-civilized state, these natural responses are usually inappropriate. When one's boss approaches, stress is likely, so do we attack him (or her) with our laptops or run from the room, like fleeing prey? No, we sit as still as we can be, in a state of stress, thereby avoiding jail for assault &/or possible loss of employment, income & the right to eat. This is our "social contract." It applies if we are non-Christians, living in a non-Christian society. This is why all humans must recognize the boundaries between self & society. I see nothing wrong in our human limitations, nor in the fact that we rely upon two legs to get around. Besides, I enjoy walking.

'The Human Condition' is simply what is. It takes some man to deem it moral or immoral, & it takes others to heed him. Christinsanity, unlike its parent, Judaism, deems Man as "born in sin," a "lost sheep" in need of a pastor or shepherd. That's why bishops carry shepherds' crooks, to denote their jobs as 'shepherds' of men, & therefore crooks in the criminal sense. The exciting thing, to me, about being human, is that we are prone to test our limits, & our minds have invented means by which to overcome them, according to Natural Law. The Frontier lies before us: That of Outer Space, & that of Inner Space, in which we have not yet discovered our limits.

But to do this, we must first cast off our bonds of mental slavery to our evil jew masters. In this way, we may know, finally, who we are, & what is good or bad for us. The real evil is error, which comes from defying Truth.

Rights without duties = Parasitism.

Duties without rights = Slavery.

Life without rights or duties = Starvation.
