

TEN POINT POSITION STATEMENT

of the

WHITE RENAISSANCE SOCIETY

1) RACE

Human races are not commensurate with nation, country or religion but are divisions of humanity, composed of people biologically and genetically related, sharing a common ancestry and heritage that shapes and separates them from all others. We of the White Renaissance Society recognize race as the determining factor in the evolution of history, and consequently recognize that the white race has been particularly productive in the blazing of cultural achievement throughout the ages. We therefore reject egalitarianism, communism, international socialism and all systems or ideologies that fail to recognize race as the paramount determining factor in human progress.

2) NATION

Race determines Nation. The underlying ideological, social, political and general cultural structures typifying a nation are externalizations of the inner nature of the particular founding or ruling race. Commonly practiced customs, mores, even religious teachings, are based on intrinsic feelings about right and wrong, truth and honor, life and death. Thus a nation is given its form. Radical liberalism and multiracial egalitarianism erode the Nation. They undermine the importance of Folk, Faith, Family and culture, depriving the people of their historical identity, sense of unity and community, shared purpose, destiny and direction. They destroy the nation as protector of the Race. We of the White Renaissance society seek to eliminate the ideologies of social decay and to replace them with a renewed racial consciousness.

3) SOCIETY

As racially aware people we seek to align our society with the laws of nature, in particular with the imperative in nature for ever higher levels of existence and continuing organic development. This means common sense mate selection and the intelligent application of eugenic principles. It also means open access to all levels of education and health care, which embodies a spiritual principle as well. In all neighborhood schools, universities and social organizations there must exist a feeling of kinship, heritage and shared destiny unencumbered by superstition or dogma, where an atmosphere of honor and excellence have meaning and value. By this it should not be interpreted that we seek to eradicate white ethnic distinctions, i.e., among Whites of Germanic, Keltic, etc. extraction to rid white society of non-white influences.

4) GOVERNMENT

The function of government must be to serve the Race; to ensure its separation and independence, defend its territory and protect it from dispossession or diminishment through assimilation or any other means. Toward these ends a meritocratic body will be erected with jurisdiction over the entire school system of the Nation, from kindergarten to university, that will itself be composed of the highest intellectual caliber the Nation has to offer. The members of this body will be selected up through the school system. In addition to instruction it will serve as an advisory council to the institutions of democratic government, and thus serve to anchor society regardless of chaotic developments inevitably encountered by a free people. Its only power will be that of persuasion, not being a democratically elected body. All actual power will reside with democratic assemblies.

5) EDUCATION

Today's public schools have been transformed from places of learning into liberal, multicultural indoctrination centers where white children are saddled with racial guilt and propagandized with egalitarian ideology. This must end. We believe the education system must serve to enhance the Race, not destroy it. For that purpose all education, even through university levels, must be free. We oppose 'affirmative action,' education quotas, set-asides and all programs in education which unduly award non-Whites on the basis of race at the expense of better qualified Whites.

6) ECONOMICS

Private capitalism encourages individual incentive and rewards the intelligent and industrious, allowing through competition the best to survive. This is perfectly harmonious with racialism where competition is actually practiced. The reality is that price competition is rarely practiced in a mature corporate economy. Competition is with innovations, sometimes frivolous ones, that give an advertising edge. The eventual outcome of competition and survival of the economically fittest are large corporations with monopoly power that have virtual control over the state. When that power works against the racial preservation of the Nation, as we see with globalization, resulting in outsourcing and importation of cheap third world labor, private capitalism becomes a danger. There is nothing wrong with globalization and free trade when practiced for comparative advantage in the production of commodities; for example, growing bananas in Canada would not make sense when bananas can be grown more cheaply in Guatemala and imported to Canada. It is when the same rationale is applied to labor that free trade becomes destructive, since then it is jobs that move from industrialized white countries to the cheaper labor markets of the third world.

The answer to corporate capitalism is co-operative capitalism, i.e., worker-owned industries, which is a more efficient system shown in the buy-out of businesses around the world by the workers in companies when threatened with unemployment due to the failure of corporate management in those companies. The largest and most successful co-operative is Mondragon in the Basque provinces of Spain, which out performs the largest Spanish firms. The system of co-operative capitalism today is impeded by the lack of funding, but this problem can be overcome in a state-owned banking system where money is not created from debt. Neither government control of socialized industries nor regulative laws are required for co-operative capitalism to replace corporate capitalism, for due to its efficiency the system will out compete the privately owned sector to eventually become the dominant system.

7) RELIGION

We recognize the inherent right and proclivity of all people to believe in, or at least entertain the possibility of, a spiritual existence that survives physical death. In the pursuit of such belief we acknowledge the freedom of all individuals. However, there is a Bigger Picture involved in relation to society than that of individual belief. History teaches that ideology, usually in the form of spiritual religion, has been fundamental to civilization, that when it passed out of the lives of people so did their culture and traditions and consequently their society. If there is no collective consciousness there can be no collective, no matter its benefit. That is how the people of the West have come to see themselves: as atomized individuals, interested in what they can derive on a purely personal level. A society dedicated to a great cause will be far different than one centered on self-interest and indulgence, and in that sense Christianity has failed Western Civilization. Intelligent, educated people can no longer believe, for instance, that woman came from man's rib. For those who can uphold Christian belief, may they do so, but for those who cannot we offer another in Cosmotheism, available at: www.cosmotheism.net. Further lucidity on rational belief is available in book form at: www.trafford.com/robots/04-1493.html.

8) THE FAMILY UNIT

We recognize the family unit as the basis of white society, whose function for the society is the begetting of healthy children. This function will be sanctified by the society. No other sexual liaison not consummated for the begetting of children, such as between homosexuals, although legal will not have sanctification. We therefore support tax breaks, childcare programs, youth outreach and support programs, and all community projects aimed at enhancing family values. We see white children as the future and destiny of our race and believe they should be nurtured and cherished accordingly.

9) ENVIRONMENT

We as a people must recognize ourselves as part of the cosmic whole. Racialism and environmentalism go hand-in-hand. Just as we have reverence for our racial heritage so must we have reverence for the physical aspects of our national heritage, for its rivers, forests, land, air quality and animals. These must be protected from the ravages of industrial expansion and pollution, but balanced with regard to the needs of our race and civilization.

10) WHITE LIVING SPACE

America is an example of a society in the process of self-destruction, repeating the pattern of racial suicide that consumed ancient Rome and other multiracial empires of the past. We believe, emphatically, in the absolute necessity of an autonomous and exclusive WHITE racial state. To achieve that racial autonomy in a multiracial world will depend first on spreading our racialist philosophy throughout the white populations of the West, securing numbers for colonization in remote and unpopulated areas, and waiting through attrition for the collapse of the decaying multiracial society around those enclaves. Areas have already been earmarked for colonization, such as the American Northwest and western Canada. An underrated area is Australia, because of its desert interior, but the objective of white colonization must be strategic, not for the purpose of building Shangri-La. A newly established white nationalist regime will encounter the hostility of the world, and Australia is isolated by two oceans and located in the southern hemisphere. Anyone who doubts the value of an ocean in protecting a regime should consider Cuba. Under a white nationalist government Australia would have no worry of separating from a larger political power, that would be the case with the American Northwest option. Australia also has abundant natural resources to wait out the sanctions and aggressions that will inevitably follow the establishment of a white nationalist government. Its present population of 20 million is officially 92% white, although more likely only around 70%, and changing rapidly.

EXTINCTION IS FOREVER

Well meaning people bemoan the threatened extinction of the gorilla, tiger, whale species, now even the polar bear, and so they should, but not a whimper is heard in protest of the most tragic threatened extinction of all: that of the white race. America will no longer be predominantly white in 50 years, nor will Europe in 100 years. Even Sweden is now "multicultural". Make no mistake: Multiculturalism means the end of white nationhood. Abortion (30 million in America since the Roe vs. Wade decision), the 'pill,' childless marriages, racially mixed offspring, etc. are taking their toll on all white populations. Many reasons can be cited, but one remedy is vital, and that is the return to the white race its sense of pride, sense of historical importance and sense of leadership in an evolving world. To do so is not only for the race itself but also in view of its achievements, for all humanity. We believe our desire to save the white race from dispossession, diminishment and displacement is the most moral, ethical and natural impulse of the human breast, and we are committed to whatever is necessary for this end.

"We must secure the existence of our people and a future for White children." – David Lane
