Some Quotes...

Herzl, founder of Zionism:
"In Paris ... I achieved a freer attitude towards anti-Semitism, which I now began to understand historically and to pardon. Above all I recognise the emptiness and futility of trying to 'combat' anti-Semitism."

League of Nationalist German Jews:
"Our way is not the way of the Zionists... of people who clearly hesitate between Germany and Jewry... of internationalist fanatics... We reject a Jewish united front, the only united front we care for is a German one..."

Lt Col. Duesenberg, head of the Stahlhelm after World War I and presidential candidate for the Nationalist Right, he was one of many German Jews who served with distinction during the war

Leni Brenner Zionism in the Age of the Dictators:

"...Believing that the ideological similarities between the two movements – their contempt for liberalism, their common volkish racism and, of course, their mutual conviction that Germany could never be the homeland of its Jews – could induce the Nazis to support them, the ZVfD solicited the patronage of Adolf Hitler, not once but repeatedly, after 1933."

Citing Ben Gurion's Memoirs Tom Segev quotes him as stating:

"If I knew that it was possible to save all the [Jewish] children in Germany by transporting them to England, but only half of them by transporting them to Palestine, I would choose the second – because we face not only the reckoning of those children, but the historical reckoning of the Jewish people."

Jay Lefkowitz, Deputy Assistant to the President for Domestic Policy:

"Deep down, I believe that a little anti-Semitism is a good thing for the Jews – reminds us who we are."

"We should prepare to go over to the offensive. Our aim is to smash Lebanon, Trans-Jordan, and Syria. The weak point is Lebanon, for the Moslem regime is artificial and easy for us to undermine. We shall establish a Christian state there, and then we will smash the Arab Legion, eliminate Trans-Jordan; Syria will fall to us. We then bomb and move on and take Port Said, Alexandria and Sinai." David Ben-Gurion, May 1948, to the General Staff.

Israel, Oil and the "planned demolition" of Lebanon

By bombing the highways and main bridges into Beirut, Israel has cut off the capital from the outside world and put the entire nation under siege. Israel can now execute its plan to pummel Lebanon into rubble without the threat of foreign intervention.

The north has been effectively severed from the south allowing the IDF to continue its ethnic cleansing operations as well as its search-and-destroy missions for Hezbollah fighters. They have meticulously destroyed all the main points of entry at the Syrian border and blockaded the coastline. Israel believes that their earlier occupation (which ended in year 2000) failed due to the unrestricted flow of supplies and weaponry from Syria and Iran. The Bush administration has assisted this effort by providing crucial intelligence from the NSA about the movement of material from the outside.

By now, it should be apparent that Israel's military campaign has nothing to do with Hezbollah's capturing of the 2 Israeli soldiers on July 14. The present plan, which was drawn up more than a year ago (and which high-ranking members of the Bush administration were fully briefed) is designed to establish a new northern border for Israel at the Litani River and create an "Israel-friendly" regime in Beirut.

The plan to annex the land south of the Litani River dates back to the founding of the Jewish state when Israel's first Prime Minister David Ben Gurion described the country's future borders this way: "To the north the Litani River, the southern border will be pushed into the Sinai, and to the east, the Syrian Desert, including the furthest edge of Transjordan." (See Map of post WW1 Zionist plan for region <http://www.palestineremembered.com/Acre/Maps/Story1045.html>)

In 1978 the IDF launched Operation Litani with the intention of annexing the southern part of Lebanon and setting up a Christian client-regime in Beirut that would take orders from Tel Aviv. Israel said that it needed a "buffer zone" for its security, the same excuse that it uses today. The 1982 invasion devolved into an 18 year onslaught which ravaged the Lebanese economy and killed more than 20,000 civilians. In 2000, Israel was driven from Lebanon by the persistent attacks of the Lebanese resistance organization, Hezbollah.

The media portrayal of the current conflict is blatantly absurd. It has nothing to do with "captured soldiers" or Israel's "right to defend itself". This is a traditional war with clear territorial and political objectives. The border controversy is nonsense. Israel is trying to seize more land to realize its vision of "Greater Israel" while reducing an adjacent Arab country to a "permanent state of colonial dependency". This explains the vast and deliberate destruction to Lebanon's civilian infrastructure. Israel's dominance requires that its neighbors endure abject poverty and oppression. By destroying the infrastructure and life-support systems, Israel hopes to eliminate the rise of a potential rival as well as to diminish the ability of the Lebanese resistance to wage war against the Jewish state. Once Lebanon is decimated, it will be delivered to Zionists at the World Bank (Paul Wolfowitz) who will apply the shackle of reconstruction loans and structural readjustment, which will keep Lebanon as an indentured servant to the global banking establishment. This model of economic servitude has been used throughout the developing world with varying degrees of success. It anticipates Israel's regional ascendancy while ensuring that Lebanon's sovereignty will be compromised for decades to come.

Boer Farmers face land confiscation

N Maine

White farmers warned

The South African Government has given white farmers six months to sell their land or be forced to leave. The African National Congress promised to return 30 per cent of white-owned farms to black South Africans when it came to power in 1994. But so far, only 4 per cent have been transferred. —Dominion Post 15 August 2006.

It was the Whites who arrived at Cape Town first and built a thriving community and yet treachery from around the globe including some of our own corrupt Prime Ministers demanded that the late coming Negroes be given the fruits of white civilisation.

Today South Africa has become the murder capital of the world with white farmers being brutally murdered on a regular basis and their lands stolen. South Africa is following in the steps of Zimbabwe border controversy is nonsense. Israel is trying to seize more land to realize its vision of "Greater Israel" while reducing an adjacent Arab country to a "permanent state of colonial dependency". This explains the vast and deliberate destruction to Lebanon's civilian infrastructure. Israel's dominance requires that its neighbors endure abject poverty and oppression. and fast becoming yet another Third world nation which will depend on support from civilised nations.

I could never understand why the whites voted to let the Negroes take control – was outside pressure that great?

The catastrophic collapse of the Zimbabwean economy brought about by its government's land grab made world news, and has fixed a picture of what the worst this continent has to offer firmly in the minds of the international community. The honeymoon of post-independence expectations is over.

Yet most of the overseas media had great hopes for post-1994 South Africa. They believed it would somehow be different here. But the same trends so evident in the rest of the continent are starting to manifest themselves here, and the more perspicacious media have now set a tone of scathing, even combative, reporting on the new South African government's policies.

R.W. Johnson's recent piece on Land Reform in South Africa in the London Sunday Times is one of those no-holds-barred articles. Johnson is a South African with top liberal credentials, a Rhodes scholar who taught at England's Oxford University. He is a prolific writer not only of articles but also of books such as his 1996 "Lauding Democracy in South Africa: The First Open Election 1994".

As time moved on, writers like Johnson and others have clearly marked South Africa's decline. His latest book "South Africa: the First man, the Last Nation" left little doubt about where South Africa was going, and his current Times piece on land reform in this country is just as incisive, peeling back the government's subterfuge and verbiage to expose the folly of its agricultural policies.

We present hereunder a slightly edited version of Mr. Johnson's Sunday Times article.

South Africa's land reform process envisages that 30% of white-owned commercial farms must be transferred to black owners by 2014, that a further 20% of high potential agricultural land must be available for lease by blacks and that all remaining white farmers must give blacks at least a 25% share in their farms, with provisions for shared decision-making and the transfer of skills so that these black partners can play a progressively large role in the farms' management.

These plans are however meeting increasing resistance from white farmers and are also compromised by the almost universal failure of the farms already handed over to black owners. Last month the "Limpopo" provincial government, controlled by the ruling African National Congress, had the embarrassing task of taking back 71 farms from black owners who had in the space of a few years allowed previously thriving farms to deteriorate to the point of collapse. Historically, Limpopo has produced over half of South Africa's tomatoes and mangoes and accounted for 60% of its citrus exports, but a tour of the farms tells a tale of complete dilapidation, with vandalized houses, overgrown orchards, vineyards which have returned to bush and fruit plantations in ruins.

Similar stories are to be heard in most other provinces but Limpopo, which neighbours Zimbabwe, is a key test case: it depends more on agriculture than any other province and its few whites (2,7% of its population in 1994, down to only 1% now) have always been hard liners. It is the stronghold of the Transvaal Agricultural Union. TAU rejects the government's plans. "What government is doing to SA's commercial agriculture under its land "reform" policy is nothing short of culpable destruction", says Fritz Ahrens, TAU's leader in the Makhado area. He complains bitterly that "we are treated like second-class citizens. Africans have lodged claims on 88% of all Limpopo's farms. In one of the meetings with government officials, I asked "where am I allowed to own land then?", and he said "Try Australia".

Land Restitution

Under the government's land restitution programme, black communities are invited to stake a claim to any land they feel was historically theirs. Since there is no downside to making such a claim, there are, inevitably, many opportunist claims but the Land Claims Commission seems determined to push the process as hard as it can.

The fourteen farms of the Letsitele Valley returned to the Mamathola community remain a terrible example of land reform. Within a short time the government grants had been used up to buy vehicles, the farms' management committees had awarded themselves vast salaries and perks and the farms foundered in a welter of recrimination. The provincial government has now brought in "strategic partners" with a ten-year contract to put the farms back on their feet and then hand them back to the community. These strategic partners are always the same - two farming operations run by white ANC members with a raft of influential ANC politicians amongst their shareholders and directors. This group has also been called in to save the Zebediela estate, once the world's largest citrus farm producing 400 million oranges a year.

The failed (black) community farmers are angry - they claim they didn't receive enough government support. One survey showed that among new black farmers, only 12% believed that hard work was necessary to ensure sustainable production. But falling agricultural production has in no way blunted the government's ideological commitment to land reform.

None of these realities feature in the government's rhetoric about land reform in which colonialism and apartheid alone is held responsible for preventing Africans from becoming successful farmers".

Disasters continue

Despite the above comments by Johnson and similar ones by international observers, and the empirical evidence that the "reform" policy is a failure, more and more farms are earmarked for takeover. The government now favours "mentoring", where white farmers are brought in to either keep the transferred farm in running order, or to resuscitate a collapsed farm. The problem with this policy is that it is a waste of time and

Russia Is Not a Lost Cause

Patrick J. Buchanan

[Note: Buchanan is a real Conservative as distinct from the so-called "neo-conservative" cabal that currently runs the USA under Bush. In the tradition of genuine American conservatism, Buchanan is an isolationist or "America First" who opposes America yobbing about the world. Real American conservatives believe in America minding its own business; something we have not seen on the world stage for generations. Another distinction between true American Conservatives of the Buchanan type and the current neo-con rulers is that genuine conservatism opposes global free trade, and advocates economic nationalism. Buchanan, as distinct from the neo-cons, is also critical of Zionism and the USA's toadying to Israel.

Buchanan served as White House communications director under Pres. Reagan, has run for the money, and does not solve the problem of creating a black commercial farming sector. The fact that there are few in the black community who are able to sustain such a sector is ignored by the government. Farmers in Limpopo tell TAU that the white groups brought in to salvage the collapsed farms in the area, are paid by the government, and they are only harvesting, not pumping capital into the farms for a long-term future. Thus everything is short term, and the plan to hand back the farms after ten years to the same people who ruined them in the first place is an exercise in futility and ideological pretence.

Emerging farm successes lauded in the press are usually without exception managed by white mentors. Everything is given on a plate, to ensure the success of the project, but the minute these mentors leave, the project invariably collapses. Is this a logical and sane way to manage commercial agriculture in South Africa? Perhaps the government's aim is to rid the country of the commercial farming sector, and to import food with the foreign exchange earned from the commodities boom. This is a gamble which may not pay off. History will surely be the judge.

presidency, edits The American Conservative, and is a nationally syndicated columnist].

Asked by the Today show's Matt Lauer about the recent caning Vice President Cheney gave him and Russia, President Vladimir Putin gave this cocky and cutting reply:

"I think these kinds of comments from your vice president amount to the same thing as an unfortunate shot while hunting."

In Rostock, Germany, Bush declined to defend Cheney or rebut Putin, though the veep's tough words in Lithuania May 4, accusing Russia of backsliding on democracy and using its oil as a weapon to blackmail neighbors, had to have been approved by the White House.

Putin, a black belt in karate and the man into whose soul Bush famously saw five years ago, as he gazed into the eyes of that ex-KGB officer, takes no guff from these Americans.

That is among the reasons Putin's approval rating in Russia is twice that of Bush in America and four times that of the veep. On the Eastern shore of Delaware, where college girls from Eastern Europe come to work in the summer, Putin is a rock star among the Russians.

Pres. Putin

Why is Putin popular in Russia? Why is America no longer so? As one of the achievements of the Reagan-Bush administration was to convert Russia from the hostile global power headed by Brezhnev into the friendly nation headed by Boris Yeltsin, these issues should concern us. For the relationship between the two greatest nuclear powers on earth has been going steadily downhill.

Americans give these reasons for the estrangement: Putin's reversion to authoritarianism, his support for repressive regimes in Belarus and Uzbekistan, his closeness to Beijing (including joint military exercises), his sale of fighter jets to Hugo Chavez and anti-aircraft missiles to Tehran, his support for Iran's nuclear plant, his recognition of Hamas' election victory, his oil blackmail of Ukraine, his unplugging of Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty, and his crackdown on U.S. NGO's promoting democracy in Russia. All seemed designed to show Russia's independence of ^ and, indeed, defiance of ^ the world leadership of the United States.

And that is not an unfair conclusion. But Americans need to ask themselves whether we have had it coming. For consider how we have dealt with Russia's interests and sensitivities.

OLIGARCHS

Listening to U.S. advisers on how to privatize the wealth of the Soviet state, Russians saw their national assets looted by thieves, hustlers and "oligarchs" welcomed in the West, as their per capita income sank and their social security vanished.

They saw the United States bomb into submission a Serb nation Russia had always seen as her Balkan god-child, for Serbia's crime of trying to hold on to her cradle province, Kosovo.

They watched America go back on her word ^ given when the Red Army withdrew from Europe ^ and push NATO into Poland, the Baltic States, the Balkans, and, now, Ukraine and Georgia. This is the political equivalent of Great Britain ^ had the United States come apart in the Civil War ^ making Virginia, South Carolina and Texas dominions of the British Empire.

They saw U.S. agents, under cover of Bush's "democracy crusade," effect the defeat of pro-Russian governments in Kiev and Tbilisi ^ through the project failed in Minsk ^ and the election of regimes pledged to reorient their policies toward the EU, NATO and the United States.

They saw Americans colluding with former provinces of the Soviet Union to develop pipelines that would bypass not only Iranian territory, but also Russian territory.

They saw the U.S. bases in Central Asia they had approved for the Afghan war taking on a permanent character.

They listened as U.S. neoconservatives cheered for Chechen rebels and officials from Cheney to McCain bashed Putin and Russia, with some calling for her expulsion from the G-8.

PATRIOT & NATIONALIST

Putin concluded, not incorrectly, that these Americans do not want partners, they want poodles. But Putin is not Blair. A patriot and nationalist, he has set about restoring Moscow's independence and self-respect, and started looking out for Russia first. He was determined to stand up for Russia, even if it meant standing up to the United States, which is why so many Russians respect him.

He imposed a flat tax, stripped the oligarchs of their assets and jailed them or ran them out of the country, liquidated the Chechen murderers of Beslan, started using his oil wealth the way great powers always do, and began to reorient his foreign policy without consulting Washington, as Washington never consulted him.

Though the West is losing Russia, Russia is not lost. But the minimal price of regaining Russian good will is to start treating her like a great nation. That means getting out of her face, getting our alliance off her front porch, and getting our bases and our Cold

Chavez "anti-Semitic" talk

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan 4 (Reuters) - Prominent Jewish rights group, the Simon Wiesenthal Center, accused Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez on Wednesday of using what it said were anti-Semitic remarks and demanded an apology.

In a televised Christmas Eve speech, Chavez, a left-winger and a former soldier, said that "minorities, descendants of those who crucified Christ ... have grabbed all the wealth of the world for themselves."

Chavez, a Catholic, did not mention the Jewish people and in the same comments referred to the betrayal of Venezuelan liberation hero Simon Bolivar. But the group said his remarks represented central War agitprop agencies and pests out of her back yard.

Russia today threatens no vital interest of the United States. Is it too much to ask that we treat Russia and her "space" the way we want Russia and Russians to treat ours?

arguments of anti-Semitism -- accusing the Jews of killing Jesus Christ and associating them with wealth.

"Both elements have served as a perfect excuse to justify the most cruel persecution and killing during two millennia," the Wiesenthal center said in a statement. "Our center strongly condemns his anti-Semitic declarations. This insult to universal humanitarian values demands an immediate retraction and public apology," it said.

An official from Chavez' presidential palace said the government had no immediate comment.

The center's International Relations Director Shimon Samuels and its Latin America representative Sergio Widder also sent a letter to Chavez demanding an apology, according to the center's statement.

They said they would call on the governments of Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay to suspend Venezuela's entry into the Mercosur trade bloc until Chavez apologizes.

The center said "the reactionary and medieval rhetoric" echoed that of Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, who last month expressed doubt the extermination of Jews by the Nazis known as Holocaust occurred and suggested the Jewish state be moved to Europe.

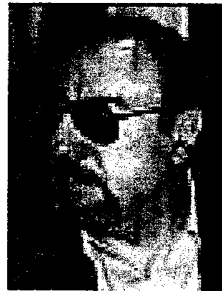

Chavez, a vocal critic of Washington, has recently been fostering ties with Iran as he builds political and trade alliances as an alternative to U.S. influence.

The influential Simon Wiesenthal Center promotes tolerance and confronts issues like racism, anti-Semitism, terrorism and genocide. It also deals with the prosecution of Nazi war criminals, neo-Nazism, and hate on the Internet.

[WD Editor: An alternative description to the final paragraph might read: The influential Simon Wiesenthal Center promotes hatred towards goyim, encourages Jewish racism, Zionist terrorism and genocide. It also deals with the prosecution of elderly veterans who fought to rid their nations of Soviet Jewish Commissars, the revival of gay nationalism and suppression of free speech on the Internet.]

Norberto Ceresole

Chavez's ideological mentor

The recent supposedly 'anti-Semitic' statements by Chavez have drawn attention to his late ideological mentor, the Argentine academic Norberto Ceresole.

Norberto Ceresole 1943 – 2003 has been described as both a "Marxist-Leninist" because of his association with Chile's Allende, Cuba and the USSR, and as a "rightist". The identification of Ceresole with communism is a simplification. Association with Cuba and the USSR among revolutionary nationalists even in the Western world (e.g. Thiriart, Francis Parker Yockey) does not ipso facto imply one is an ideological Marxist, but is based on the banal dichotomy of those supporting the status quo of globalisation and US hegemony. There are those who would continue to maintain that Gen. Peron was a "Marxist" for example.

Ceresole was born in Buenos Aires in 1943. Sociologist, political scientist and specialist in Geopolitics, he was author of 30 books on politics and strategic subjects, including many books on Zionism and Jewish influence. He participated in the Peruvian Revolution of Gen. Velazco Alvarado in 1968 and was an adviser to Gen. Peron in his Spanish exile. Later he was member of the Academy of Sciences of the USSR. During two decades he developed important contacts in Havana, Cuba, and was an adviser of the Iranian Government, and numerous other Islamic and Arabic states.

In Venezuela he collaborated with Commander Hugo Chavez. He was also the head of an institute promoting the legacy of Gen. Peron. He died in 2003 in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Ceresole's ideological legacy to Chavez includes Nietzsche, geopolitical theorist Karl Haushofer and Clauswitz, influences which cause concern for the world power brokers, and which hardly indicate Marxist leanings. In particular, Ceresole has been accused of "anti-Semitism", and was a declared admirer of leading "Holocaust revisionist", French academic Prof. Robert Faurisson, who is said to have 'tutored' him in revisionism. He was also a supporter of European Rightist groups such as the Social Republic Movement in Italy.

Although Chavez expelled Ceresole from Venezuela in 1999, after a long association, for 'anti-Semitism', Ceresole's influence on Chavez's thinking remains evident. Ceresole believed that a 'civil-military' party should rule in a 'post-democracy', and that a 'Bolivarian' confederation of Latin American States would emerge, held together in social and economic spheres by the military. This is indeed the course set by Chavez not only in his "Bolivarian" Republic but in his vision for Latin America, and in the predominance of army officers in Government and economics. Asked why he is intending to launch a film industry to rival Hollywood in Latin America, Chavez explained: "It's a Hollywood dictatorship. They inoculate us with messages that don't belong to our traditions." This in itself might be construed as an implicit "anti-Semitism" in some quarters, and is reminiscent of Yockey's reference to "the spiritual syphilis of Hollywood." The increasing influence of Chavez cannot long be tolerated by the world's power brokers. More power to him! (Editor)

World Chaos Looms Over Middle East Crisis

The following article is from the New Zealand online newsletter UR4Warned. Although the immediate circumstance might have altered by the time we republish it, the scenario remains the same, and the analysis as it pertains to New Zealand's vulnerability, despite our isolation, remains valid. The same Zionist-'neo-con' coterie that advises the Bush Administration, organised into numerous think tanks such as the "Project for a New American Century" years ago produced policy documents clearly stating that America's supposedly "vital interests" require the protection of Israel at any cost, and that this would involve the elimination of the present regimes in Iraq, Iran and Syria. The policy documents recommended the strategy of reviving "Cold War" rhetoric and applying it in a propaganda offensive to a number of so-called "rogue regimes" (i.e. any state that doesn't acquiesce to US/Zionist/plutocratic control) which the world now knows by the US term "Axis of Evil". The policy documents, which we (Western Destiny and Spectrum Press) have reproduced are readily assessable on the internet. See for e.g. the policy document prepared in 1996 by the Institute for Advanced Strategic & Political Studies, Study Group on a New Israeli Strategy Toward 2000, entitled A Clean Break: A New Strategy for Securing the Realm. Additionally, the 2002 letter to George Bush from the Project for a New American Century signed by a long list of "neo-con" Zionist academics and opinion moulders such as William Kristol, Donald Kagan, Richard Perle, Norman Prothroetz, et al.

Baiting Iran

Is Israel going to attack Syria next?

Now don't forget Syria and Iran have an agreement that if one is attacked then the other will go to their aid. Both Israel and the US know this!

Israel has used the most pathetic excuse to justify its attack on Palestine and Lebanon. What pitiable excuse is needed to attack Syria?

Will it appears Israel has found an excuse!!!

Report: Israel gives Syria ultimatum

London-based Arabic language newspaper Al-Hayat says Israel gave Syria 72 hours to stop Hizbullah's activity, bring about release of kidnapped IDF troops. 'Israel will not end military activity until new situation created that will prevent Syria, Iran from using terror organizations to threaten its security,' newspaper quotes Pentagon official as saying

The London-based Arabic language newspaper Al-Hayat reported Saturday that "Washington has information according to which Israel gave Damascus 72 hours to stop Hizbullah's activity along the Lebanon-Israel border and bring about the release the two kidnapped IDF soldiers or it would launch an offensive with disastrous consequences."

The report said "a senior Pentagon source warned that should the Arab world and international community fail in the efforts to convince Syria to pressure Hizbullah into releasing the soldiers and halt the current escalation Israel may attack targets in the country."

Al-Hayat quoted the source as saying that "the US cannot rule out the possibility of an Israeli strike in Syria," this despite the fact that the Bush administration has asked Israel to "refrain from any military activity that may result in civilian casualties."

Is Israel going to attack Syria next?

Now don't forget Syria and Iran have an agreement that if one is attacked then the other will go to their aid. Both Israel and the US know this!

If Israel attacks Syria then Iran is treaty bound and must step in and go to Syria's aid. Both Israel and the US, along with the worlds' controlled media, will claim Iran is the aggressor. Israel retaliates with military action against Iran. The US steps in to protect Israel and becomes involved in the conflict.

NZ TAKE HEED

If Israel is successful in dragging Iran into the Middle East conflict than take heed of the following:

The United States and Israel will cooperate together in launching an attack against Iran. Nuclear weapons may be used as a first strike weapon against Iran, if not used at the beginning of this conflict they will be used soon after.

Expect the eventual use of both chemical and biological weapons.

In the beginning this conflict will be confined to the Middle East Region. Oil supplies from this region will be disrupted resulting in world shortages and prices heading towards a predicted US$200+ per barrel.

Russia and China, in all probability, will be forced to enter this conflict opposing both Israel and the United States.

Europe will enter the conflict in an attempt to secure oil supplies.

It is estimated that such a conflict will kill off around two-thirds of the world's population. The world's population is approximately 6.6 billion (6,600,000,000) so we are talking around an estimated 4.4 billion (4,400,000,000) deaths.

Whether or not this conflict takes days, or weeks or even months to develop into a world conflict I do not wish to predict.

If I am wrong then the reader can have a good laugh at my expense, but...if I am correct...I for one will not be laughing.

Impact on New Zealand

Oil supplies to New Zealand, if available, will be greatly reduced and will eventually cease as the conflict widens - New Zealand will run out of fuel stocks.

Private vehicles will be obsolete as either there will be no fuel for them or it will be so expensive people will not be able to afford to buy it. The country will run out of diesel fuel, which will hit New Zealand hard. As the freight system is mainly diesel based, New Zealand will lose its ability to transport what food it has.

Most of New Zealand's basic foodstuffs are imported. These supplies and other essential items will be cut off or supplies greatly reduced.

New Zealand's economy at the moment is being kept afloat by increasing property values and retail sales. Bad news here I'm afraid. If limited fuel supplies are still available but at the predicted US$200+ a barrel this will eventually lead to New Zealand's economic collapse. If fuel supplies are cut off New Zealand's economic collapse will come much quicker.

There will be massive layoffs/unemployment. Reduced numbers employed in essential services

The Stock Market would crash, destroying Pension Funds.

Property values would fall like a lead balloon, go thru the floor and end up somewhere near the centre of the earth.

Banks would end up closing their doors, as they would be insolvent. People who have deposited savings in the banking system would find their money gone, not available, in other words lost. Your credit cards

No unemployed benefits from the Government as their tax revenue will be greatly reduced if not completely destroyed. Most people who manage to survive will find themselves absolutely destitute but still liable for any debt they have incurred.

Food, if available, will be in short supply. Opps...nearly forgot. Hope you realize that your local supermarket carries only two days of stock in hand. Yep...they call the system it JIT (Just In Time). So if you think you can rush down to your local supermarket and stock up you are going to be JTL (Just Too Late). By the way how much food do you carry in your home? Not too worried...oh well. By the way do you have children or maybe grandchildren...what about them?

If you have cash in hand expect to pay very highly inflated prices if some quantities of food stuffs are available. If you are out of work and have no cash in hand then how are you going to buy food? Expect to go hungry if you're not prepared. What did I hear you say? What...you will plant a garden. Will good on you. When do you expect to be able to pick your first cabbage? Pardon, didn't quiet catch your answer...three months you say! Will I hope you got a lot of body fat on you...you'll need it! By the way, nearly forgot. I gather you have vegetable seeds? What, no? You say you pop down to the shop and buy some? Yeah...right, you and a couple of other hundred thousand New Zealanders. GOOD LUCK!

By the way, if you're not working how are you going to pay your utility bills, you know, electricity and gas? Do you honestly think that you are someone special and that the utility companies are going to be charitable organizations? Ops...got you thinking at last. HOW ARE YOU GOING TO COOK YOUR FOOD? Just image it, NO ELECTRICITY OR GAS. No dishwasher, no washing machine, COLD SHOWERS OR BATHS, will once and awhile at least, especially when people complain about your body odor. Oh yes, how much soap do you have?

And what about your Local & Regional Body rates? All local bodies are in debt and if you are a property owner you are liable for this debt. If you have no money how are you going to pay your rates? By the end of the conflict the rates you owe will most probably exceed the market value of your property!

After the Conflict Ends

Yes by the time this conflict is over people who have survived will be truly "SHOCKED AND AWED". A NEW WORLD ORDER WILL ARISE from the ashes, promising survivors hope and security. But the price for this hope and security may be too high for the minority who see and understand the true nature of this NEW WORLD ORDER. And you, what will you do if you are still alive...?

By the way...nearly forgot. New Zealand has at least two military installations on its soil that would be targeted in a war:

- The Waihopai electronic intelligence gathering base located in the Waihopai Valley, near Blenheim.
- The high frequency radio interception and direction-finding station at Tangimoana, near Bulls.

"FROM THE NILE TO THE EUPHRATES"

WD Comment

The key to understanding the Middle East problem is that Israeli ambitions for the region rest on the creation of a "Greater Israel" that stretches from the rivers Nile to the Euphrates, with this empire as the centre of world control, and a rebuilt Temple of Solomon upon the ruins of what is now the "Dome of the Rock", the third holiest place of Islam.

The Zionist have appropriated the covenant of Abraham which states:

"I give unto them the land where they have sown their seed, from the river of Egypt unto the great river of Euphrates." (Genesis 15:18).

The Zionists believe this is God given. Therefore any apparent Israeli withdrawal from occupied lands or supposed peace initiatives should be considered with scepticism. The Israelis pursue a dialectical strategy, summed up in the words of Mao: "Two steps forward, one step back." Their ultimate aim for the region must forever be that Greater Israeli empire.

In 1952 Moshe Dayan, who became Israeli defence minister, declared:

"Our task consists of preparing the Israeli army for the new war approaching in order to achieve our ultimate goal, the creation of an Israeli empire."

Israeli would rather set the world on a course of nuclear destruction than relinquish this goal.

World War 3

Attorney Edgar J. Steele

July 17, 2006

*"And it's one, two, three,
What are we fighting for?
Don't ask me, I don't give a damn,
Next stop is Vietnam;
And it's five, six, seven,
Open up the pearly gates,
Well there ain't no time to wonder why,
Whoopie! we're all gonna die."*

Country Joe and the Fish, The Fish Cheer
& I-Feel-Like-I'm-Fixin'-To-Die Rag
(Vanguard Records, 1967)

Some say that WW3 now has begun.
I say it began with 9-11.

Here's the setup as of today:

With the American incursion into the Middle East stalled due to public resistance generated by failure in both Afghanistan and Iraq, Israel believes it must directly destabilize and/or control all Islamic fundamentalist states, else face certain destruction in the future. Israel's conduct in the region since the Palestinians were pushed aside to make way for its formation after WWII has made Israel's viewpoint a self-fulfilling prophecy.

Israel is in the process of seizing the balance of Palestine via the simple expedient of killing or driving out all remaining Palestinians from their homeland.

Simultaneously, and by its own declaration, Israel has begun a war with Lebanon.

Hezbollah, Islamic military protector of Lebanon, now has declared war upon Israel. Based in Lebanon, Hezbollah is supported and directed by Syria and Iran.

That means Israel also is at war with Syria, since Lebanon is directed and protected by Syria (which Israel has wanted America to invade). Syria formally has declared its support for Lebanon.

Therefore Israel soon will be at war with Iran, since Syria and Iran have a mutual defense pact (and Israel has wanted America to invade Iran, too). Iran already has pledged "support" for Syria and previously has called for Israel to be "wiped off the map."

NORTH KOREAN FACTOR

North Korea and Iran have been very cozy in recent years: North Korea has nuclear missiles but no money, while Iran has lots of money but no nuclear missiles. They share a deep and abiding hatred of America. Do the math.

Iran wants Israel dead and the American puppet regimes removed from all Arab countries.

Israel wants Iran broken apart and under its own control, along with every other Middle Eastern state.

North Korea wants South Korea and the removal of American forces from Asia. China wants Taiwan, long has wished to eliminate Japan and also would like the removal of American forces from Asia.

RUSSIA

Russia would like both America and Israel to stop meddling in the affairs of its breakaway republics and former client states in the Middle East.

America wants to rule the world; indeed, believes it already does so.

The world economy is so broken due to plundering by International bankers and other Zionist elite that Depression II is inevitable. Just like WWII and Depression I, WWII will be the only way to distract people from their impending economic misery, mask the effects of Depression II and get economies going again. Just like WWII and Depression I, international bankers and other Zionist elite will be the real beneficiaries by loaning and selling to all sides and once again scooping up small businesses, farms and residences for one-tenth their value.

The average American, dumbed down by a broken education system and both distracted and lied to by the most tightly-controlled media in history, is unaware of most of the foregoing already-existing scenario, not to mention real history. American Christian fundamentalist dispensationalists desperately want to believe the media lies about Arabs starting hostilities, with Israel merely defending itself. The subplot, involving the usual International bankers and other Zionist elite, is denied by even knowledgeable Americans.

Here's how it could play out from here:

SYRIA & IRAN

Israel bombs Syria. Syria invokes its mutual aid pact with Iran in order to deal with Israel. Iran must cross Iraq to help Syria, which puts Iran at war with America, regardless of what America does or does not do at Israel's behest. America uses its mini-nuclear "bunker buster" bombs on Iran, in response, because America quite literally has no other option available. Israel helps out with air support.

Iran and Syria launch Silkworm or Russian Sunburn missiles (which cannot be defended against) against American naval forces in the Persian Gulf and the Mediterranean, respectively, thereby neutralizing America's navy and cutting off resupply of ground troops in Iraq. Or, perhaps, with the nuclear shackles off, a handful of nuclear air bursts take out all of America's carrier groups. Regardless, kiss the American Atlantic fleet goodbye. Resupply becomes impossible and it is a long walk from Baghdad to Kuwait, so America's Middle Eastern ground forces, too, are removed from the equation and likely annihilated.

With America out of the way, Iran launches nukes against Israel, which cannot defend against even Scud missiles, thereby turning Israel into a giant, self-illuminated glass parking lot. As a parting gesture, Israel launches its massive nuclear arsenal against all of its Middle Eastern enemies and selected cities in Russia and Europe (just as it has threatened should its destruction become inevitable). Or, Israel might well launch preemptively and Iran respond, with the same result. Regardless, Israel's six million Jews perish in the ensuing nuclear holocaust, thereby finally fulfilling Hebrew prophecy. Simultaneously, Islamic fundamentalist factions take over all American puppet states in the Middle East, such as Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar and Egypt. A resurgent Libya helps out. An Islamic fundamentalist union arises in what is left of the Middle East, stretching from Turkey to India and from Kazakhstan to North Africa. And they have nuclear weapons.

Meanwhile, North Korea invades South Korea, forcing America to use nukes since it has no other option with which to defend American forces stationed there. North Korea responds in kind against all American strongholds within reach, including those in Japan (e.g., Yokosuka).

CHINA

China moves on Taiwan, as threatened for so many years, using nukes if necessary. Kiss the American Pacific Fleet goodbye when it interferes as dictated by America's defense pact with Taiwan. Technically, China now is at war with America, who likely dithers and does not launch against China. China may well move against Japan at this point. America dithers further, distracted by its problems in the other direction. NATO dissolves.

Now homeless but following sealed orders, Israel's nuclear subs position themselves in an attempt to mimic those of America and Russia, then launch against both China and Russia in order to fulfill Israel's pledge to take the Western world down with itself. China retaliates against America and Russia with a very limited nuclear strike, albeit everything it has, while invading Russia and seizing everything east of the Ural mountains.

Russia retaliates against military targets in what she perceives to be Jewish America and Jewish Britain (and possibly Jewish Germany and Jewish Austria) for Jewish Israel's nuclear attack, if revealed, else simply against America. Russia's extensive nuclear strike against China kills half its population, yet still leaves it with the largest conventional army in existence.

USA

With its oil supply cut off, no manufacturing infrastructure left and its military forces (most of which were overseas) destroyed, America has no conventional defensive capability left. America uses its nuclear ICBMs to counterattack military targets, inside both Russia and China, prompting a massive Russian counterstrike against American population centers.

All surviving nuclear missile submarines, having launched their weapons, return home to their respective countries. Russia and China reload and return to sea. America has nothing with which to reload...for the time being. Israel's subs dock in America, where they likely are met by angry mobs and destroyed.

America, now beheaded and lying prostrate, lapses into widespread race wars, with Aztlan in the Southwest and New Africa in the deep south coming into existence...for the time being. America's shadow government is pulled from its underground vaults, tried for war crimes and shot by nascent New American forces.

China seizes Alaska, then moves into Western Canada and Northwestern America, where it is stopped cold by unexpectedly ferocious American and Canadian guerilla warfare.

EURO-RUSSIAN BLOC

What is left of Russia and Europe consolidate their defensible borders, which have changed radically, and sign a mutual-defense pact.

America ceases to be a world player and struggles merely to survive. New America emerges from the ashes with a strong sense of its ethnic heritage due to the race wars it just has endured.

The attempt at a New World Order results in an effective standoff between EuroRussia, Greater Islam and China. Eventually, New America joins EuroRussia and assumes its rightful position as a merely coequal player in world affairs.

RACE WARS

South America and Africa return to widespread tribal warfare and genocide, experience massive famine and pandemic disease and thereby restore a natural balance between their environments and their much-reduced remaining human populations. Pockets in South America actually thrive. WW4 looms in the not-so-distant future, to be fought by our grandchildren.

Australia and New Zealand likely escape unscathed, but, like the rest of the world, in WW4 will face a serious threat from China.

Culture Distortion in...

"The Upper Room"

Dr Margaret E Stucki, Ph.D.

Dr Stucki is one of the now all too few custodians of the Western artistic tradition, as a painter, sculptor, author and poet. Dr Stucki is founder of the Stucki-Linstead Museum of Fine Art, and has been Professor of Art at Shelton College, and Hartwick College. She has won numerous awards, and is listed in the Dictionary of International Biography, Dictionary of International Poets, 2000 Women of the World, Who's Who in American Art, Who's Who of American Women, and Who's Who of Women in the World. (See elsewhere for a list of Dr Stucki's books).

In this article Dr Stucki considers a painting by Chris Ofili, whom we have dealt with before in Western Destiny, regarding his painting of Mary, likewise featuring elephant dung, which had been displayed courtesy of a Saatchi scion.

"Of how much sorer punishment suppose ye, who hath trodden under foot, the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, and unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of Grace?" Heb. 10:29.

"Do not they blaspheme that worthy name by which you are called?" Jas. 2:7

"The fool hath said in his heart, There is no god. They are corrupt, they have done abominable works." Ps. 14:1.

"Because sentence against an evil work is not executed speedily, therefore the heart of the sons of men is fully set in them to do evil." Eccl. 8:11.

The Tate Gallery, London's most prestigious Museum, exhibited painter Chris Ofili's The Upper Room, over the period of 13 September 2005 to 1 May 2006, the latter (1 May) being the high holy day or founding day of the Illuminati.

These thirteen canvases that comprise The Upper Room, of about 6' X 5', were exhibited in a specially designed room, with the central picture at the back of the room, and 6 paintings on each side. Each rests on the floor with supports made of elephant dung.

Spotlights in the ceiling provide illumination. Each painting is dominated by a separate colour, with the larger painting at the end of the room predominantly of gold.

There was a public outcry that the painter Chris Ofili was also a Trustee of the museum, and the deal and price for his exhibit was consummated in secret.

Really? Nepotism in government institutions! Imagine! Scandalous!

But to my knowledge there was no public indignation expressed at the title of the exhibit, "The Upper Room", which historically refers to Jesus Christ's Last Supper, in an upper room where His disciples hid "for fear of the Jews". Jesus washed His disciples' feet at this last gathering before Gethsemane and His Crucifixion. He also instituted the rite of the Eucharist meal.

Ofili's acclaimed "The Upper Room" - monkeys and elephant dung

The images of the 13 in this "Upper Room" are of rhesus macaque monkeys. Is this a prank - monkey business - or perhaps blasphemy?

In Ofili's depiction of Jesus Christ and His disciples as monkeys propped up by elephant excrement we have the greatest of sacrilege.

My admiration goes out to those of the Muslim faith for their intolerance of the desecration of the image of their Prophet.

I have contempt for the Christian churches of England that have said nothing about the sacrilegious images in the Tate.

Pyramid shaped hill rising above the town of Visoko, thought to hide a 12000 year old pyramid under its earth and vegetation

Last year Semir Osmanagic, a self-styled Bosnian explorer, started initial investigations in the area, convinced the 'constructions' on Visocica and Pljesivica hills were the work of builders from an unknown civilisation.

He says further research using satellite pictures has provided more evidence for his case.

The images show the hills cooled a lot faster than their surroundings, he says, proving the substance of the structures was less dense and therefore probably made by humans.

"With the paucity of contrary evidence, the hills are presumed to be anthropogenic structures of potentially colossal proportions," says Bosnian geophysicist Dr Amer Smailbegovic.

The explorers, who are expected to be joined by an Egyptian archaeologist and a geologist later in the year, hope to find stone blocks, or the steps of the 'pyramids'.

Osmanagic, who wears an Indiana Jones-like hat and clothing and says he sharpened his eye for archaeology on numerous trips around the world, says the two structures are precisely aligned with the four points of the compass.

Sarajevo-born researcher Semir Osmanagic holds a geological image of the area, which he says is evidence of Europe's first pyramid near the Bosnian town of Visoko.

On the outskirts of the town, Visocica Hill, which Osmanagic refers to as the Bosnian Pyramid of the Sun, stands some 220 metres high, with a square base of more than 400 by 400 metres.

Osmanagic says he sees astonishing similarities between the structures and Mexican pyramids dating back to about 200 AD, [a Times report states he believes the pyramids could be 12,000 years old - WD], which also come in pairs, one believed to represent the Sun and the other the Moon.

The director of the Visoko Historic Heritage museum, Senad Hodovic, says he is no sceptic.

"The pyramids are obviously the work of man. But we need proper and serious analysis to show who built them and when."

Hodovic says he has spent years urging authorities to support archaeological research on the plateau of the hill, which is recorded in historic annals as the site of a medieval Bosnian town.

He says the shape and monumental size of the structures is not typical for Bosnian constructions of the Middle Ages.

Building the New Babel

Multiculturalism & the New World Order

By K R Bolton

"AND THEY SAID, GO TO, LET US BUILD US A CITY AND A TOWER, WHOSE TOP MAY REACH UNTO HEAVEN; AND LET US MAKE US A NAME, LEST WE BE SCATTERED ABROAD UPON THE FACE OF THE WHOLE EARTH. AND THE LORD SAID, BEHOLD THE PEOPLE IS ONE, AND THEY HAVE ALL ONE LANGUAGE; AND THIS THEY BEGIN TO DO; AND NOW NOTHING WILL BE RESTRAINED FROM THEM, WHICH THEY HAVE IMAGINED TO DO? THEREFORE IS THE NAME OF IT CALLED BABEL" (GENESIS 11).

This publication Building the New Babel meticulously documents those who are promoting multiculturalism and immigration, exposing an intricate network of Foundations, Funds, fronts, and lobbies, and the nexus between the Mammon worshippers of international finance and their supposed Left-wing "enemies."

Prof. Noam Chomsky, the celebrated academic, is a virtual guru and icon to the Left. Yet he is unorthodox even from a Left-wing viewpoint. This is how he describes the globalist position regarding race, which is completely at odds with the Left, but accords with the basis of our book Building the New Babel:

"See, capitalism is not fundamentally racist—it can exploit racism for its purposes, but racism isn't built into it. Capitalism basically wants people to be interchangeable cogs, and differences among them, such as on the basis of race, usually are not functional. I mean, they may be functional for a period, like if you want a super exploited workforce or something, but those situations are kind of anomalous. Over the long term, you can expect capitalism to be anti-racist—just because its anti-human. And race is in fact a human characteristic—there's no reason why it should be a negative characteristic, but it is a human characteristic. So therefore identifications based on race interfere with the basic ideal that people should be available just as consumers and producers, interchangeable cogs who will purchase all the junk that's produced—that's their ultimate function, and any other properties they might have are kind of irrelevant, and usually a nuisance."

CONTENTS

Capitalist Dialectics, Chomsky, Marx, Spengler, Quigley, Destruction of South Africa, Old Labour Fought for Immigration Restrictions, White Australia Policy, William Lane, W G Spence, Joseph Chifely, Arthur Calwell, Jack Lang;

Why are wealthy and powerful forces pushing multicultural and immigration agendas throughout the Western world? Whose benefit is this really serving? Under the façade of humanitarian slogans a world tyranny is being constructed using immigration and multiculturalism to break down traditional nations, cultures and societies.

The ultimate goal is the establishment of what George Bush and his father have both called the New World Order. This New World Order is also now widely recognised as globalisation. However many of those opposing globalisation are often not only blind to the issues of multiculturalism and immigration as among the primary strategies of globalisation, but even avidly promote these causes in the belief that they are benefiting the underprivileged.

This New World Order is the culmination of a millennia-long aim to dethrone God and enthrone a system based on the worship of Mammon, the "love of money".

Selected quotes

"In 1996, according to a Reuters report, Nelson Mandela, heralded as a saint by the capitalist press and the Left alike, stated that: 'Privatisation is the fundamental policy of the ANC and will remain so.'"

"Among the many calls by the 'world managers' for internationalism US industrialist and CFR member John Diebold predicted in 1973 that 'the logical development (of the global corporations) would be the end of nationality and national governments as we know them.' Barnett and Muller state that Jacques Maisonrouge, president of the IBM World Trade Corporation likes to point out that: 'Down with borders', a revolutionary student slogan of the 1968 Paris university uprising in which some of his children were involved is also a welcome slogan at IBM."

"Jacob Schiff, the influential partner at Kuhn, Loeb & Co. is credited with formulating the concept of the NAACP during meetings at Henry Street Settlement, a socialist project among poor immigrants in New York he had funded."

"Until the 1960s the problem of Mexican migration was economically based, and involved the demand for cheap labour by the giant agricultural combines in the USA. However, during the 1960s, with the rise of 'identity politics', 'black power' and the well-funded 'civil rights' movement, the Ford Foundation expanded its ethnic outreach to Mexican migrants. The aim was to begin a process of forming previously diverse nationalities into a unified 'Hispanic' ethnic movement intended to further erode any vestiges of an American nationality, identity or culture. The Ford Foundation, through its grant-making strategies, has formed a new 'race' (La Raza) that threatens to secede parts of the USA to Mexico or at least declare a separatist Hispanic nation."

"Mattel boasted a coup by having sponsorship from Hip Hop star Christina Aguilera, whom Mattel states herself personifies the ideas of fearless self-expression, by which we presume means that Aguilera affects pornographic lyrics and poses."

"Da Ali G Show is promoted and marketed by Home Box Office (HBO). HBO is a subsidiary of the communications giant Time Warner, which includes AOL, Time Warner Cable, Turner Broadcasting, New Line Cinema, Warner Bros. Entertainment, and Time Inc. the largest publisher of magazines in the world. Its executive is a reflection of corporate America. The company donates and lobbies politically through its own Political Action Committee. It donates mainly to multicultural and ethnic lobbies, including the Asian American Federation, Hispanic Federation, NAACP, National Council of La Raza, and Puerto Rican Legal Defense & Education Fund."

"Wolfgang Kasper, Prof. Of Economics, at the Association for Migration & Investment: 'A tribe of truly global business people has emerged.'"
